Husker Salute . . .

Starting fullback Bryan Carpenter has filled a valuable role for the Huskers since fullback Sam Schmidt was lost for the season with a broken ankle. Carpenter is fourth in rushing for NU with 429 yards on 57 carries and three touchdowns. He scored on a crucial 49-yard run in a tight game against Missouri and also recorded his best day against the Tigers with 96 yards total. Carpenter, a 5-10 junior, is from Olathe, Kan.

Nebraska vs. Colorado

The Scouting Report

by Tom Simons

TODAY: It's the final home game of 1988 for Nebraska, and the final home game in the careers of 32 NU seniors, as the 9-1-0 Huskers take on 7-2-0 Colorado in a Big Eight conference game. Nebraska goes into the last two week-ends of the regular season tied for first place with Oklahoma at 5-0-0, and probably needs a win today to be able to win the conference title outright—although it looks like the winner of next Saturday's Husker-Sooners matchup will receive the Orange Bowl bid. Colorado, on the other hand, comes into today tied for third with Oklahoma State at 3-2-0, and mathematically eliminated from the Big Eight race. Although the Buffs can't go to the Orange Bowl, they could give their bowl stock a huge boost with a win today.

RECORD STREAKS: Today's game is, of course, a sellout, extending Nebraska's NCAA-record string of consecutive sellouts to 161 since 1962. Not coincidentally, the Huskers have not had a losing season in that time, and the 27-year string of winning seasons is a new NCAA record. In 25 of those seasons, and in the last 20 in a row, Nebraska has won at least nine games.

THE COACHES: The Huskers' Tom Osborne (Hastings, 1959) is 156-35-2 in 16 years as a head coach, all at Nebraska, and ranks as the second-winningest active coach in the NCAA's Division I-A. Osborne's .813 career winning percentage trails only that of Oklahoma's Barry Switzer, who is 156-27-4 in 16 years for .845. The Buffaloes' Bill McCartney (Missouri, 1962) is 34-42-1 in his seventh year as a head coach, all at Colorado, but is 14-6-0 over the last two years. Osborne is 14-1-0 vs. Colorado (including 7-0-0 in Lincoln), 5-1-0 vs. McCartney.

THE SERIES: It's the 47th meeting in a series that began in 1898 and is continuous since Colorado joined the then-Big Six in 1948. The Huskers lead it, 33-12-1, and have won 19 of the last 20 meetings, including last year's 24-7 victory at Boulder. The Buffs' only win in that stretch was a 20-10 upset at Boulder in 1986. Nebraska, which has a 28-11-1 edge on CU in Big Seven/Big Eight games, is 17-5-0 at home against the Buffs, including 14-5-0 in Memorial Stadium. The Huskers have won nine in a row at home from CU since a 21-16 loss in 1967. Saturday's game is Colorado's first visit to Lincoln since 1985, when FB Tom Rathman's 84-yard TD run with 23 seconds left in the third quarter broke a 7-7 tie and started the Huskers on their way to a 17-7 win.

UPDATING TAYLOR: All-America quarterback Steve Taylor overcame wind-driven snow and a wind-chill index reading of zero degrees to shred Iowa State for four TD's (three rushing, one passing) and 225 total-offense yards as the Huskers beat the Cyclones, 51-16, last week at Ames. The TD's increased his school-record career total to 61 (eight more than the old record), while the yards upped that career mark to 4,767 as he moved past Turner Gill (4,634 from 1980-83) into the No. 4 spot on the all-time NU chart. He's 13 yards behind No. 3 Mike Rozier (1981-83), but needs 517 in the last two games to break Jerry Tagge's (1969-71) school record of 5,283.

Against the Cyclones, he rushed for 154 yards, the second-best game ever for a Husker QB and only 3 yards off his position record of 157. That makes him the 12th Nebraska player, and first QB, to top the 2,000-yard career mark, as he now has 2,018. Taylor has thrown at least one TD pass in each of the last five games, and in all but one of Nebraska's 10 games this season. He hasn't thrown an interception in 37 attempts since the first half of the Oklahoma State game, Oct. 15, and has thrown only one interception in 60 attempts since the third quarter of the Sept. 24 Arizona State game.

UPDATING THOMAS: All-America OLB Broderick Thomas had seven tackles, including five unassisted, two for losses of 12 yards and an 8-yard sack, in the win at Iowa State. With the tackles, Thomas, who is a leading candidate for the Buktus and Lombardi awards, moved ahead of Ken Geddes into ninth on the Nebraska career chart with 225, easily the most-ever for a Husker DE/OLB. He remains fourth on the unassisted tackle chart with 134.

CLARK'S NOW SIXTH: With 146 yards on 20 carries against Iowa State, junior I-back Ken Clark increased his season rushing total to 1,165 yards and moved from 12th up to sixth on the Nebraska single-season chart.

Leading the Buffaloes . . .

Leading the Colorado defense is linebacker Michael Jones (#59). A junior from San Diego, Calif., Jones leads the Buffaloes in total tackles with 92 and in sacks with 3.5 for 32 yards lost. He has 61 solo stops, 8.5 tackles for 48 yards lost, one pass broken up and one fumble caused. Jones earned honorable-mention All-Big Eight honors in 1987 by AP.

High-Scoring TE Profits from NU Ground Game

by Bill Doleman

After Nebraska's 63-42 blowout of Oklahoma State last month, Cowboy quarterback Mike Gundy may have become the spokesman for every Nebraska opponent of the last 15 years when in his dejection he vented his frustrations on playing the Huskers.

"They run, run, run, run and fake run and then pass," he said. "That's why their tight ends are open so much . . . That damn bootleg pass to the tight end they've got, they've been using ever since I was knee high watching them."

Indeed they have. In Tom Osborne's run-oriented offense that has been much-criticized by those out-of-the-know for its lack of passing but rarely for its lack of effectiveness, tight ends such as Junior Miller, Jamie Williams and Todd Frain have become serious receiving threats.

However, no tight end has been more threatening in his Husker career than Todd Millikan. A three-year starter, Millikan has had the knack of being in the right place—usually the end zone—at the right time—usually when his team needed him most. In the Huskers' complex system of offense, it seems as though Gundy may be correct in pinpointing the reason, as simple as it sounds, for NU's offensive success, as well as Millikan's.

"It's just because of our running game," Millikan said. "If it's going good, it always brings the defensive backs up to make the play on the wingback or the I-back. That's when Coach will call the bootleg."

"It gives you an extra step to try and beat them which is why it works so well. I like to think I have enough speed to where I can get behind the secondary."

He has and does—often. And even though he said he didn't have a good game in the Huskers' 28-18 win over Missouri, and even though the Tigers still led 9-7, it was Millikan's 82-yard touchdown reception that may have been the deciding blow in the game. With NU's offense sputtering and quarterback Steve Taylor scrambling, Millikan found himself in the right place at the right time once again. As a result, the Huskers found themselves gaining control of a game they needed to win in order to stay alive in the Big Eight and national championship races.

"That was just one play," he said. "Sure it was great and everything, but there are 70 more plays where you've got to do your job, too. And if you don't, you can't be satisfied. I hate going to watch films knowing I didn't block as well as I should have."

Sure it was just one play in one game, but throughout his career, Millikan has made several big plays in several games since his switch from linebacker prior to the 1985 season. His statistics show big play capabilities not often found in a tight end. Millikan's 39 career receptions total 816 yards for an incredible 20.9 yards per catch average. His 14 career touchdowns are the most ever for a Nebraska tight end passing former All-American and all-pro Junior Miller.

"I don't know why that is," Millikan said of his knack for making the big play. "I guess it just happens that way, but I thank God that I've had the opportunity to do things like that for the team."

"Having the record is a nice thing but I really haven't thought about it much. I suppose after I get done and start thinking about my career at Nebraska, it'll hit me a little bit more as to what I've accomplished here."

While Millikan modestly claims good fortune for his success, the Huskers, more so, have been the benefactor of good luck in just getting Millikan to wear the scarlet and cream. In fact, he could have easily taken his talents to the crimson and white of arch-rival Oklahoma.

Well, not really. Now that his brilliant career as a Cornhusker is winding down, the cat's out of the bag and NU fans can chuckle about the "Sooner-that-never-really-was-going-to-be."

"It's kind of a funny story," Millikan said of his recruitment by the Sooners.

It seems Millikan's older brother, Mike, was a big Sooner fan who would've been proud to see Todd spend his career in Norman. And according to Todd, Mike did what he could to make that happen.

One of 32 seniors making their final home appearance, Todd Millikan has become one of the best tight ends in Nebraska history.

"It was my senior year," he recalled, "Mike came over and said 'why don't you check out Oklahoma?' I told him they didn't know who I was."

As it turns out they didn't, but that didn't matter to Mike, who matter-of-factly decided it was time the Sooners found out and who better to call than Barry Switzer, himself.

But first he had to get through Switzer's secretary, who informed Mike that the Sooner head coach was in a meeting. Didn't she know this was important? Todd recalls the conversation like this:

"Mike said, 'It's about a recruit' and the next thing I knew he said, 'Yes, Coach Switzer, my brother plays football and . . .'"

"Coach Switzer must've said, 'He won't want to come down here. He'll want to go to Nebraska or Iowa or someplace like that,' because Mike said, 'No, he's really interested'."

Some sales pitch, but it was good enough. Two days later, Millikan received a letter in the mail scheduling his recruiting trip to Norman. As it turned out, Switzer was right, and Nebraska fans have been able to breathe a sigh of relief ever since the Huskers won the "recruiting battle" for the Shenandoah, Iowa native.

"If Mike hadn't called," he said, "I probably wouldn't have gone down there to visit. I was always pretty sure I was going to come here, though. I was just a little curious."

"But I'm really satisfied with coming to Nebraska. Playing at home for the last time is going to be pretty emotional because there's nothing like the feeling of coming out before 76,000 fans. I'll miss that a lot, especially when I realize that it's the last time I'll ever be able to do that at Memorial Stadium."

But he and his teammates know that a win over Colorado, today, still leaves them with unfinished business and the task of winning the elusive conference title will be met on the road—in Norman, Okla.

"We haven't won a Big Eight championship since we've been here," Millikan said. "That's one of the reasons I came here but we've always blown the opportunity. I always say 'hopefully,' but this year I have a different feeling going in to the end of the season."

"We have to improve and then let it all hang out against Oklahoma because I'd really like to go out with a bang."

And a ring.

Chancellor's Club

The University of Nebraska-Lincoln is committed to providing its students with a quality education that will help to prepare them for the challenges they will face as leading citizens and professionals in the twenty-first century. By the year 2000, the students in our classrooms today will have become the emerging leaders of business and industry, education, the arts, public service, agriculture, and the professions in a world that is rapidly becoming an interdependent, multinational community. Therefore, we believe that when our graduates depart UNL, they must possess a basic understanding of other cultures, an awareness of the historical, political, economic, and social factors which affect the relationships among nations, and the knowledge to perform effectively in the face of constantly changing and uncertain circumstances.

To assist our students in achieving broader perspectives, UNL is seeking to revitalize and internationalize its curricula in many disciplines. For example, in September, the College of Agriculture received a $619,750 grant from the W. K. Kellogg Foundation to help the College reshape its curriculum for the 1990s. This three-year grant will fund a program entitled University of Nebraska New Partnerships in Agriculture and Education (NUPAGE), which will support innovative partnerships among students, faculty, and community professionals to help the College develop new course content and new strategies for learning that will make agricultural studies more relevant.

In addition, this past summer, the Board of Regents approved the establishment of a new major in international business for students in the College of Business Administration. This new undergraduate major is designed to better prepare students for corporate business careers by offering a range of academic opportunities in international studies.

A comprehensive land-grant and major research university, such as UNL, must be, in effect, a "window on the world" for all students, regardless of their chosen major. Another way in which all members of the University community may learn about the major global issues of our times is by attending a new lecture series that was initiated this year with a generous grant from the Cooper Foundation of Lincoln. The Cooper-UNL Forum on World Issues brings four internationally renowned speakers to the University each year to address pressing global issues, such as the environment, international trade, and relationships among the world powers. The Forum's first speaker, Paul Ehrlich, the Bing Professor of Population Studies at Stanford University, attracted an audience of more than one thousand members of the UNL community and citizens from across the state. Rushworth Kidder, the Forum's second lecturer and senior columnist for the Christian Science Monitor, stimulated the minds of a large audience this past week.

Through these programs and others, UNL continually strives in creative ways to anticipate the challenges that our students will encounter in the future and to equip them with the intellectual breadth and the global perspectives they will need to participate with confidence as leading citizens of the twenty-first century. On behalf of the UNL community, I wish to extend our most sincere appreciation to the many generous benefactors who support efforts to provide our students with the opportunity to learn more about the rapidly changing world to which they must adapt. For this and succeeding generations of young men and women, a high-quality education of breadth and depth, such as the one provided by the University of Nebraska-Lincoln, is essential preparation for positions of personal and professional leadership in the future.

Down to Earth Hicks Has High-Flying Idol

by Ben Boyle

Although it will be argued by the more than 14,000 fans who were there, Michael Jordan's No. 1 fan was not in attendance when the Chicago Bulls and New Jersey Nets played in a recent exhibition at the Bob Devaney Sports Center.

While the "Air Jordan" show drew oohs and aahs from a capacity crowd at the Devaney Center, Nebraska defensive back Lorenzo Hicks also had something to "holler" about.

"They locked us up the night (Oct. 28) before the Missouri game (at the Nebraska Center, where the Huskers prepare on Friday nights for next-day games) and I was mad about that," Hicks said. "Michael Jordan is my idol and some people say I resemble him and play like him a bit."

Although the senior from Kansas City, Mo., is a two-year starter at cornerback on Nebraska's seventh-ranked football team, he isn't shy about his passion for basketball.

"I grew up playing on the playgrounds," Hicks said. "We had a park about a block away from my home that we called 'The Spectrum' after the Philadelphia 76ers. I was a Dr. J fan before Michael came on the scene."

Hicks didn't even play football until high school, but it didn't take long for him to establish himself in that sport either.

"When I was a freshman in high school, believe it or not, I was a defensive end and tight end," he said. "But in the last game, I switched to safety and had three interceptions, including one for a touchdown."

By the end of his junior year college football recruiters began calling, which shocked him at first.

"I never did think I was that good and I guess I still don't," Hicks said. "The first team I heard from was USC, so I figured if they were calling I must be pretty good."

The attention from major college recruiters was nice, but Hicks said basketball remained his favorite sport.

"During the football season, I would come home from practice and go down to the Spectrum and play basketball," he said. "Football was fun, but basketball is my first love."

One of his biggest highlights in high school was playing in the annual Las Vegas High School developmental tournament with a team from Kansas City that was coached by former Kings' star Sam Lacey.

"We made it to the quarterfinals and we probably would have done even better, but there was some confusion as to what time our game started and we had to forfeit because we didn't make it there on time," Hicks said.

During his senior season, Hicks teamed with former Kansas State guard Will Scott to give Southeast High School one of the top backcourts in the state.

Watching Scott go on to play for the Wildcats' basketball team once gave Hicks' second thoughts on whether he had picked the right sport.

"I got some letters from some small colleges and I got one from Kansas, but I had already signed to play football at Nebraska, so they stopped coming," he said. "If I would have went to KU, I probably could have played both sports and maybe I would have been on the team when they won the title last year. That's not to say they were going to give me a scholarship or recruit me very hard, but you never know."

If that wasn't enough confusion, when Hicks arrived on the Nebraska campus for fall camp in 1984, he wasn't sure what position he wanted to play.

"I was one of those split end/db's," he said. "The first day of practice coach Osborne told us if we weren't sure what side we wanted to play, to practice with the offense in the morning and the defense in the afternoon. I started at wingback and Dana Brinson was late getting into town, so the coaches kept me at wingback."

Hicks went on to start at split end for the freshman team that fall and then redshirted during the 1985 season.

"In the spring following my red-shirt year the coaches suggested that I could move to defensive back," Hicks said. "There was still two weeks of spring left, so I decided to give it a shot."

After seeing limited action as the fifth cornerback during his sophomore season, Hicks finally found a home as Nebraska's starting left cornerback at the beginning of the 1987 season. He's been a starter ever since, but ironically, the play he remembers most is from his sophomore season.

"Hopefully, the highlight of my career is still coming, but the one thing that helped me more than anything was the 1987 Sugar Bowl (against LSU)," he said. "I got in late in the game and had a touchdown thrown over me."

"As I came off the field the coaches kind of got on me even though we had a big lead (Tom Hodson's 24-year touchdown pass to Tony Moss cut NU's lead to 30-15, to conclude the scoring)," he said. "I went home and that's all I heard about because it was on TV."

The modest Hicks has turned things around 180 degrees since then, but his daily wardrobe includes an ominous reminder of that play.

"That not much of a highlight, but that taught me to learn from my mistakes," he said. "Since that play, I've worn this LSU hat for that reason."

When Hicks leaves Nebraska, however, he would prefer a more special accessory to remind him of his playing career.

His ring size is 11.

Hicks (8) positions himself to bring down Brent Parker in the Huskers' 63-42 win over Oklahoma State.

Athletic Director Bob Devaney

Bob Devaney ranks as one of the finest football coaches in college history, after his colorful 16-year career at Wyoming and Nebraska, and now ranks as one of the nation's most outstanding athletic directors.

Devaney is in his 27th year of providing drive, leadership and pride in the Cornhusker athletic program. He arrived in 1962, charged with the mission of building a successful football program, and he succeeded far beyond anyone's expectations. During an 11-year stint as Husker football coach, Devaney's teams won 101, lost only 20 and tied two for a winning percentage of .829. His career mark of 136-30-7 (.806) ranked him as the winningest coach in the nation at the time of his retirement in 1973. Devaney's teams won eight Big Eight titles and two consecutive national championships during the 1962-72 span, with his teams going to nine bowl games. His teams twice won four consecutive Big Eight titles.

Devaney's 1971 team, which posted a 13-0 record and twice played for the national championship (beating Oklahoma, 35-31, in the "Game of the Century," and Alabama, 38-6, in the Orange Bowl), has been hailed as the best college team of all time. Bob was inducted into the National Football Hall of Fame in 1981.

Since becoming athletic director in 1967, Devaney has brought the same success to the overall Husker athletic program that he brought to the football program. Under his leadership, Nebraska annually sets the pace in the Big Eight all-sports race with solid entries in all men's and women's sports.

Under Devaney's guidance, Memorial Stadium has been enlarged, artificial turf has been installed and replaced three times, a stadium office building was constructed, and sports facilities such as the Otto and Gladys Baumann Baseball Complex, Buck Beltzer Baseball Stadium, Ed Weir Track, a new track office building and the women's softball stadium have come into being.

It was Devaney's leadership, working in conjunction with the Nebraska Legislature, that resulted in the passage of a special cigarette tax to provide funds for a new athletic complex, the beautiful basketball arena, indoor track, swimming and other sports building, which opened on the State Fair Grounds in 1976. University of Nebraska Regents recognized Devaney's contributions to that four-and-a-half-acre structure by naming it the Bob Devaney Sports Center in 1978.

Devaney currently spearheads a fundraising drive to provide the University of Nebraska with a new Faculty-Student Recreation Center, as well as the Cook Pavilion indoor workout facility.

Devaney received many other honors during his coaching career. He was named Coach of the Year by the Walter Camp Foundation, the Football Writers of America, Football News and the Washington TD Club in 1971; and he was tabbed to coach in numerous all-star games, such as the Hula Bowl, Coaches All-American, Blue-Gray and East-West Shrine. He also coached the College All-Stars against the Dallas Cowboys in the 1972 Chicago game.

A graduate of Alma (Michigan) College in 1939, Devaney served as a high school coach at Big Beaver, Keego Harbor, Saginaw and Alpena in Michigan before joining Biggie Munn and Duffy Daugherty at Michigan State. In 1957 he became head coach at Wyoming, where his teams posted a 35-10-5 record.

Devaney is married to the former Phyllis Wiley. They have a son, Mike, and a daughter, Pat, both graduates of the University of Nebraska. Bob and Phyllis also have two grandchildren. □

Tom Osborne: Head Football Coach/ Assistant Athletic Director

Husker Coach Continues as Winner and Leader

Tom Osborne heads into his 16th season as a head coach—all at Nebraska—once again ranked among the "Big Three" of college football.

Osborne takes a remarkable 147-34-2 record into 1988. That makes him No. 3 among the winningest active coaches in Division I-A of the NCAA, and he's just a blink away from the No. 2 spot held by Penn State's legendary Joe Paterno.

While Dr. Tom has long held "legendary" status in Nebraska, his fame is spreading throughout the nation as he continues to build Big Eight powerhouses each fall. During the past 15 years, Osborne's teams all have finished in the Top 10 and all have gone a-bowling, while averaging 10.2 wins per season. No other coach in the 1980s can make that claim.

Osborne's .8087 winning percentage trails only Paterno's mark of .8093 and Oklahoma coach Barry Switzer's .843 among the active coaches in I-A. Since succeeding Hall of Fame coach Bob Devaney in 1973, Tom has won nine or more games in every season.

During the past eight years, his teams have won the national rushing title four times, and have finished second once and third twice. In 1987, Osborne's Huskers were third in national rushing, third in scoring and second in total offense.

With Tom at the helm, Nebraska has run its string of consecutive bowl bids to 19 and its Top-10 streak to 18, both current national records.

Adding even more luster to Osborne's coaching career is the fact that the Cornhuskers have made history by producing three consecutive Outland Trophy winners (Dave Rimington in 1981 and 1982 and Dean Steinkuhler in 1983) and two consecutive Lombardi winners (Rimington in 1982 and Steinkuhler in 1983), while also winning the 1983 Heisman Trophy (Mike Rozier).

During Tom's 15-year career, the Huskers have produced 32 All-America players and 25 Academic All-America players, as well as seven NCAA postgraduate scholarship winners and three National Football Foundation and Hall of Fame Scholar-Athlete recipients.

Only two Osborne-coached teams have finished lower than second in the Big Eight—the 1976 team, which tied for fourth but was only one game out of a first-ever three-way tie for first, and his 1986 10-2 team, which lost to Colorado and Oklahoma. His teams have won or shared in the conference title six times in the past 13 years (1975, 1978, 1981, 1982, 1983 and 1984).

He has three times been named Big Eight coach of the year (1975, 1978 and 1980), and five times been named District VI coach of the year by the American Football Coaches Association and Kodak (1978, 1979, 1980, 1983 and 1987). In addition, in 1978 he was named Bobby Dodds national coach of the year by the Atlanta Quarterback Club and Delta Air Lines for his efforts toward the advancement of the higher and more notable aspects of college coaching. And in 1983 Football News named Osborne national coach of the year.

In 1982 he was the first recipient of the Distinguished Nebraska-lander Award from the Nebraskaland Foundation, and in 1983 he was named national coach of the year by the Fellowship of Christian Athletes.

Osborne, who graduated from Hastings College in 1959 before logging pro time with the Washington Redskins and San Francisco 49ers, joined Devaney as an assistant in 1962. In 1965 he received his Ph.D. in educational psychology, then chose football coaching as a career. He coached the Husker receivers and helped build the NU offense into one of the most potent in the nation during the 1970 and 1971 national championship years.

While Osborne was a newcomer to the head coaching ranks in 1973, he was no stranger to Nebraska football. Osborne was a member of Bob Devaney's incomparable staff for 11 years—the last six as a key organizer of a steamroller offense.

During his tenure on the Devaney staff, Osborne headed the passing game strategy and coached the receivers. When Devaney announced his retirement from coaching in favor of full-time athletic director duties following the 1971 season, he named Osborne as his successor. Osborne served as assistant head coach and director of recruiting in Devaney's final campaign in 1972, then took the head coaching reins in 1973.

An outstanding high school athlete at Hastings (Neb.) High School in the mid-1950s, Osborne was named Nebraska prep athlete of the year. Passing up major-college offers, Osborne became a star quarterback and basketball player for Hastings College, where both his father and grandfather had matriculated. At Hastings he played both football and basketball for Coach Tom McLaughlin, who was elected to the Nebraska Football Hall of Fame in 1982. In 1959 Osborne was named state college athlete of the year—the first athlete in Nebraska history to win both the high school and the college honors.

In 1962 he secured a position as a graduate assistant on Bob Devaney's Husker staff. He served in that capacity until he obtained his master's degree in 1963. Continuing his dual role in education and football coaching, Osborne gained his doctorate in 1965 and, holding the academic rank of instructor of educational psychology at Teachers College, was a part-time coach.

Osborne, born Feb. 23, 1937, elected to pursue coaching full-time in 1967 and became the Huskers' receivers coach, a decision that NU fans have applauded since.

Married to the former Nancy Tederman, Osborne is the father of a son, Mike, and two daughters, Ann and Susie. Mike followed in his father's footsteps by playing football at Hastings College, where he was a quarterback. He is now a graduate student. □

University of Nebraska: Innovation and Excellence for America's Future

Two years after acquiring statehood, Nebraska founded the University of Nebraska in Lincoln as both its land-grant institution and its state university. Since 1869 the University of Nebraska-Lincoln (UNL) has been a catalyst in Nebraska's development as an imaginative, industrious and ingenious state.

Today the partnership between Nebraska and its university is taking on new dimensions. UNL has redefined and expanded its traditional land-grant role to reflect Nebraska's need for new knowledge in a wide spectrum of rapidly advancing scientific, technological, agricultural and business-related areas.

As Nebraska's major research and most comprehensive undergraduate university, UNL serves as the primary source of new knowledge in the academic disciplines and provides education of the highest quality for future scientists and engineers, as well as for students in the liberal arts and professions. UNL researchers have achieved national stature for doing work in the fields of electro-optical measurements, mass spectrometry, biotechnology, biochemistry, climatology, atomic and solid-state physics, materials science, water quality, agricultural marketing and economics, communication disorders, computer science, political analysis, history and English, among others.

To meet the demands of scholarship and service, UNL has taken an interdisciplinary approach to complex research problems. In recent years the University has established research centers in the areas of productivity and entrepreneurship, franchise studies, engine technology, electro-optical measurements, biotechnology and biochemistry, food processing technology, Great Plains studies and agricultural product development, marketing and utilization.

Informational support for university teaching and research includes a library system with more than two million volumes, an on-campus network of main-frame and personal computers, and participation in MIDNET, a vital link to the National Science Foundation's supercomputer network.

UNL's 1,100-member faculty is one of Nebraska's most vital resources. Nationally respected for their expertise and scholarship, UNL faculty bring to the classroom a commitment to providing the University's 25,000 undergraduate and graduate students with the intellectual skills and the breadth of knowledge they will require as community and professional leaders in this era of accelerated technological and social change.

As a result of a two-year study, UNL has initiated the Program for the Advancement of General Education. Undergraduate programs are being strengthened as curricula are refined to provide a common learning experience for UNL's students. Substantial attention is being focused on the development of skills that a citizen of the 21st century will require: the ability to communicate verbally and in writing, mathematical competency, computer literacy, facility with languages other than English, sound reasoning capabilities, and the ability to make decisions that are both knowledge- and value-based.

So the question you have to ask yourself is not, can you afford to go to college.

The question is, can you afford to wait.

More than 150,000 alumni worldwide have graduated from UNL to become leaders in business, industry, education and the professions.

Over the years alumni such as authors Willa Cather and Mari Sandoz, legal educator Roscoe Pound, anthropologist and author Loren Eiseley, and scientists such as Nobel Prize-winning chemists George Beadle and Donald Cram, inventor Harold "Doc" Edgerton and computer pioneer Jay Forrester have enriched the University's tradition of leadership and scholarly excellence.

Quality instruction is emphasized in UNL's eight undergraduate colleges, in the Graduate School and in the professional graduate College of Law. The Colleges of Agriculture, Architecture, Arts and Sciences, Business Administration, Engineering and Technology, Home Economics and Journalism and the Teachers College offer more than 130 degree programs leading to career opportunities in the arts, the sciences, the humanities and the professions.

UNL receives more than $30 million annually in grants and contracts from outside sources for research, instruction, public service, administration and student aid.

The University of Nebraska-Lincoln reaches thousands of citizens each year through programs conducted by the Cooperative Extension Service and the Division of Continuing Studies. The Cooperative Extension Service provides all Nebraskans with information and assistance in agricultural and natural resources, home economics, family living, 4-H and youth development and community resource development. The Continuing Studies program offers an alternative to formal on-campus education with programs such as summer reading courses, evening classes, independent study by correspondence, telecourses and study tours.

The Lincoln campus is home to the nationally renowned Sheldon Memorial Art Gallery and Sculpture Garden, the University of Nebraska State Museum, the Christlieb Collection of Western Art and the University's championship Big Eight Conference men's and women's athletic teams.

The University of Nebraska-Lincoln is an imaginative leader in American education, setting ever higher standards for degrees of excellence. □

1987-88 BOWL REVIEWS

Mike Moore

Nebraska's Morgan Gregory outjumped Florida State's Greg Newell (40) and Martin Mayhew (32) to make this catch in Sunkist Fiesta Bowl XVII.

All-American Bowl

December 22, 1987

at Birmingham, Alabama

Quarterback Scott Secules ran for one touchdown and passed for another in leading Virginia over Brigham Young, 22-16, in the 11th All-American Bowl.

Secules scored from two yards out to stake the Cavaliers (8-4) to an early 7-3 lead and hooked up with wide receiver John Ford on a 22-yard scoring pass in the fourth quarter.

Meanwhile Cougar Sean Covey was slicing up Virginia's defense for 37 completions and 394 passing yards, but just one touchdown—on a one-yard pass in the final period.

BYU (9-4) enjoyed a 489-349 yardage advantage and held the ball for over 34 minutes, but was twice stopped inside the five and failed to convert a fourth-and-one with 3:50 remaining.

Eagle Aloha Bowl

December 25, 1987

at Honolulu, Hawaii

Coach Terry Donahue and the UCLA Bruins tied records for consecutive bowl victories with a 20-16 decision over Florida in the sixth Eagle Aloha Bowl.

Donahue joined Bobby Dodds of Georgia Tech and Bear Bryant of Alabama as the only coaches to post six straight bowl wins.

As a team UCLA matched bowl winning streaks set by Georgia Tech (1951-56), Nebraska (1969-74), Southern California (1974-79) and Alabama (1975-80).

The game was also a milestone for the host Aloha Bowl Committee, as it staged its first contest under the corporate sponsorship of Jeep/Eagle. A Christmas Day date was also something new.

The Bruins (10-2) shook off the disappointment of not going to the Rose Bowl by beating a Florida (6-6) team that was coming off NCAA probation and hadn't seen postseason action since the 1983 Gator Bowl.

A five-yard touchdown pass from Troy Aikman to Danny Thompson, set up by a blocked punt, put UCLA in front, 17-10, in the third quarter. A Gator fumble led to the Bruins' final points, a 32-yard field goal by Alfredo Velasco.

Florida's Emmitt Smith led all rushers with 128 yards. UCLA's Gaston Green sat out with an injury.

Bluebonnet Bowl

December 31, 1987

at Houston, Texas

Texas quarterback Bret Stafford passed for a record 368 yards and three touchdowns, leading Texas to a 32-27 upset victory over Pittsburgh in the 29th Bluebonnet Bowl.

Stafford's primary target was wide receiver Tony Jones, a track team sprinter who snared eight passes for a record 242 yards and two long touchdowns. Stafford and Jones connected on first-quarter scoring passes of 77 and 60 yards, helping the Longhorns (7-5) to a 17-7 halftime lead.

Texas expanded its advantage to 32-14 before Pittsburgh rallied with a pair of late touchdowns.

Pittsburgh (8-4) was led by 136 yards from bruising running back Craig "Iron Head" Heyward and three TD passes from freshman reserve quarterback Larry Wanke.

California Bowl

December 12, 1987

at Fresno, California

Ron Adams fired a 32-yard scoring pass to Craig Ostrander late in the fourth quarter, sending Eastern Michigan to a 30-27 triumph over San Jose State in the seventh California Bowl.

The Hurons (10-2) of the Mid-American Conference trailed by four points at the start of the final period before Gary Patton dashed 15 yards for a touchdown and a 23-21 Eastern Michigan lead. San Jose State (10-2), the Pacific Coast Athletic Association champion, regained the advantage on James Saxon's 16-yard run with 9:36 left to play.

Patton led all rushers with 130 yards, while San Jose State QB Mike Perez was 26 of 39 for 290 yards.

Cotton Bowl

January 1, 1988

at Dallas, Texas

Heisman Trophy winner Tim Brown was extended a less than warm homecoming in the 52nd Cotton Bowl, as Notre Dame was routed by Texas A&M, 35-10.

Brown, the Fighting Irish wide receiver and kick returner from Dallas, did not catch a pass in the second half and was penalized and benched after tackling an A&M player who had swiped his favorite hand towel. The incident spoiled what Brown had hoped would be a triumphal return to Dallas.

Notre Dame (8-4) assumed an early lead, thanks in part to Brown's 17-yard touchdown catch, but four Irish turnovers helped the Aggies (10-2) turn the game around.

Ahead, 10-3, Notre Dame drove deep into Aggie territory before Terry Andrysiak was intercepted in the end zone. A&M went 80 yards to tie the score and tacked on a quick touchdown following a fumble on the Irish's next possession.

After Brown returned a kickoff with Notre Dame trailing, 28-10, early in the fourth quarter, a member of A&M's famed "12th Man" kickoff team grabbed the Fighting Irish star's towel and headed for the sideline. Brown ran 20 yards across the field and tackled Warren Barhorst in front of the Aggie bench. Notre Dame was penalized 15 yards for the personal foul and Brown, who caught six passes for 105 yards in the first half, did not see further action.

Sunkist Fiesta Bowl January 1, 1988 at Tempe, Arizona

Florida State marched 97 yards in the closing minutes to score the winning touchdown and topple Nebraska, 31-28, in the 17th Sunkist Fiesta Bowl.

Trailing, 28-24, with 6:58 remaining, the Seminoles got a break when Cornhusker I-back Tyreese Knox fumbled at the Florida State three-yard line. The Seminoles took the ball the length of the field and went in front when quarterback Danny McManus hit Ronald Lewis with a 15-yard scoring pass on fourth down and goal.

Nebraska had three minutes to retaliate, but penalties killed its hopes. A 56-yard pass to the FSU two-yard line was nullified by an illegal formation, while two other penalties—an illegal forward pass and intentional grounding—finished off the comeback.

McManus, who threw for three TDs, passed for a Sunkist Fiesta Bowl-record 375 yards and 28 completions and was named the offensive player of the game.

The game matched two of the great offensive minds in college football, Nebraska coach Tom Osborne and Florida State's Bobby Bowden, whose teams traded the lead three times and combined for 851 yards in offense.

Florida State (11-1) wound up ranked second in the nation, while Nebraska (10-2) was fifth.

Florida Citrus Bowl January 1, 1988 at Orlando, Florida

Tracy Johnson ran for three touchdowns as Clemson handed defending national champion Penn State its worst-ever bowl defeat, 35-10, in the 42nd Florida Citrus Bowl.

Clemson amassed 499 yards on offense. Tiger quarterback Rodney Williams, who completed 15 of 24 passes for 214 yards and no interceptions, was named the game's MVP.

Tailback Terry Allen led Clemson rushers with 105 yards, while Johnson had 85. The Tigers ran for 285 yards.

The injury-riddled Nittany Lions played without three key players—tailback Blair Thomas, wide receiver Ray Roundtree and linebacker Pete Giftopoulos, one of the heroes in Penn State's win over Miami in the 1987 Sunkist Fiesta Bowl.

Freedom Bowl December 30, 1987 at Anaheim, California

Sparked by a career-best passing performance by quarterback Danny Ford, Arizona State exploded for 24 second-quarter points and held off Air Force, 33-28, in the fourth Freedom Bowl.

The victory was a going-away present for Sun Devil coach John Cooper, who after the game announced he was headed for Ohio State.

Ford hit wide receiver Aaron Cox with a 61-yard touchdown pass while throwing for a career-high 272 yards. Cox caught four passes for 110 yards, and running back Darryl Harris rushed for 93 and one touchdown.

The Sun Devils (7-4-1) led, 33-14, before Air Force QB Lance McDowell hooked up with Steve Senn on a pair of fourth-quarter scoring passes.

The Falcons finished the season at 9-4.

Mazda Gator Bowl December 31, 1987 at Jacksonville, Florida

Quarterback Tom Hodson and wide receiver Wendell Davis provided the offensive fireworks in Louisiana State's 30-13 triumph over South Carolina in the 43rd Mazda Gator Bowl.

Hodson fired three scoring passes to Davis, the first two giving the Tigers (10-1-1) a 14-0 lead in the first quarter. The third connection gave LSU a 27-6 advantage in the second half. Davis' scoring catches covered 39, 12 and 25 yards.

Meanwhile, South Carolina quarterback Todd Ellis threw for over 300 yards but was stymied by a Mazda Gator Bowl-record four interceptions and seven sacks by the LSU defense. Ellis suffered a broken hand in the second quarter but chose to stay in the game.

South Carolina finished the season at 8-4.

Hall of Fame Bowl January 2, 1988 at Tampa, Florida

Michigan's John Kolesar pulled down a 20-yard touchdown pass from Demetrius Brown with 50 seconds left, giving the Wolverines a hard-fought, 28-24 victory over Alabama in the second Hall of Fame Bowl.

The game featured a duel between two of the nation's top running backs. Michigan's Jamie Morris rambled for 234 yards and three touchdowns, while Alabama's Bobby Humphrey accounted for 149 yards and two scores.

Sparked by Humphrey's two fourth-quarter TDs, the Crimson Tide fought back from a 21-3 deficit to take a 24-21 lead late in the game. The Wolverines then went 62 yards in six plays to tally the winning score.

Michigan coach Bo Schembechler was absent from the sideline after undergoing heart surgery in December, and offensive coordinator Gary Moeller took over in his absence. The Wolverines finished 8-4.

Bill Curry's Crimson Tide wound up 7-5 in his first season at Alabama.

Sea World Holiday Bowl December 30, 1987 at San Diego, California

Winning its second straight Sea World Holiday Bowl by a single point, Iowa came from behind to post a 20-19 victory over Wyoming.

Western Athletic Conference champion Wyoming (9-3) carried a 19-7 lead into the fourth quarter, but the Hawkeyes (10-3) rallied with a pair of fourth-quarter touchdowns. David Hudson's one-yard plunge with 1:33 remaining was the game-winner.

Beside shutting down Wyoming during the second half, Iowa's defense registered two touchdowns—a 33-yard interception return from defensive MVP Anthony Wright and a blocked punt by Merton Hanks that was returned for a score by Jay Hess.

Iowa quarterback Chuck Hartlieb completed 21 of 35 passes for 237 yards, while Cowboy quarterback and offensive MVP Craig Burnett was 28 of 51 for 332 yards.

In the ninth Holiday Bowl in 1986, Iowa pulled out a 39-38 thriller over hometown favorite San Diego State.

Independence Bowl December 19, 1987

at Shreveport, Louisiana

Washington rolled up a 21-10 first-half lead and coasted to a 24-12 win over Tulane in the 12th Independence Bowl.

The Huskies were directed by quarterback Chris Chandler, who closed out his career at Washington by passing for 234 yards and two touchdowns. Both scoring strikes were from five yards out and launched the Huskies (7-4-1) to a 14-point second quarter.

Tulane (6-6) scored its only touchdown on Mitchell Price's 44-yard punt return in the second quarter. Green Wave quarterback Terrence Jones passed for 248 yards.

Liberty Bowl December 29, 1987 at Memphis, Tennessee

Scoring the last 17 points of the Liberty Bowl, Georgia got a last-second, game-winning field goal from a substitute placekicker and turned the tables on Arkansas, 20-17.

Georgia's regular kicker had been suspended for violating team rules. His replacement, John Kasay, missed a pair of field goals before connecting on two and an extra point during the Bulldogs' fourth-quarter comeback. Kasay's 39-yarder at the gun gave UGA (9-3) the win.

Arkansas (8-4) built a 17-3 third-quarter lead, thanks to a pair of touchdown runs from quarterback Greg Thomas. The Razorbacks were in position to kick a go-ahead field goal late in the game, but Kendall Trainor was wide on a 35-yard attempt.

Orange Bowl January 1, 1988 at Miami, Florida

Miami's Hurricanes won college football's national championship and helped their coach shake a bowl-game nemesis by dominating Oklahoma, 20-14, in the 54th Orange Bowl.

Head coach Jimmy Johnson and his Miami teams had been defeated in three straight bowls, the third—a 14-10 loss to Penn State in the 1987 Sunkist Fiesta Bowl—depriving the Hurricanes of a national championship.

This time around, Miami's defense limited the Sooners' powerful Wishbone attack to 255 yards while Hurricane quarterback Steve Walsh threw for 209 yards and two touchdowns.

Miami broke a 7-7 halftime tie on Greg Cox's Orange Bowl-record 56-yard field goal, and the lead grew to 17-7 following Walsh's 23-yard scoring pass to flanker Michael Irvin.

Meanwhile Oklahoma's offense, without injured quarterback Jamelle Holieway, sputtered for most of the second half. Cox added a 48-yard FG for Miami before Oklahoma scored on a trick play late in the game.

The 1988 Orange Bowl furthered Miami's recent success against Oklahoma. The Sooners were 33-3 during the last three seasons—all three of the losses coming at the hands of the Hurricanes. Oklahoma finished third in the wire service polls.

Peach Bowl January 2, 1988 at Atlanta, Georgia

Tennessee tailback Reggie Cobb redeemed himself for two lost fumbles when his nine-yard touchdown run with 1:52 left lifted the Volunteers to a 27-22 victory over Indiana in the 20th Peach Bowl.

Cobb, voted the game's outstanding offensive player, ran for 146 yards and two touchdowns, but both of his fumbles occurred deep in Hoosier territory and cost Tennessee potential scores.

Indiana trailed early in the game, 21-3, but the Hoosiers fought back and went ahead, 22-21, when Tim Jorden scored from 12 yards out on a fake field-goal attempt early in the fourth quarter.

Tennessee quarterback Jeff Francis completed 20 of 26 passes for 225 yards and one touchdown, a 45-yarder to wide receiver Anthony Miller. The Volunteers finished at 9-2-1. Indiana finished 8-4.

Rose Bowl January 1, 1988 at Pasadena, California

A clutch completion, a freshman kicker and a fumbled center snap all played parts in Michigan State's 20-17 victory over USC in the 74th Rose Bowl.

Freshman kicker John Langeloh's field goal with 4:14 left provided the winning margin, but the drive's big play was a pass from Bobby McAllister to Andre Rison. Chased out of the pocket on third-and-eight, McAllister jumped and threw as tacklers forced him out of bounds. The pass was on target to Rison for a 36-yard completion, setting the stage for Langeloh's game-winner.

USC got the ball back twice, but turnovers ended both drives. The Trojans fumbled a snap at the MSU 30 with 1:33 remaining, and Rodney Peete's last-gasp pass was intercepted at the 13 with three seconds left.

The Big Ten's Spartans ended the Pac-10's six-year hold on New Year's Day games. It was just the second win for Big Ten teams in the last 14 Rose Bowls.

Michigan State finished 9-2-1, while USC was 8-4.

USF&G Sugar Bowl January 1, 1988 at New Orleans, Louisiana

After driving to the Syracuse 13-yard line with four seconds left, Auburn opted for a field goal and a 16-16 tie in the 54th USF&G Sugar Bowl, thus depriving the Orangemen of their first perfect season since 1959.

Syracuse, which finished the regular season with an 11-0 record, took a 16-13 lead on Tim Vesling's third field goal with 2:04 remaining.

Auburn quarterback Jeff Burger completed 10 of 11 passes on the ensuing 63-yard drive that set up Win Lyle's game-tying field goal, his third of the game. The possession was marked by a fourth-and-six conversion from the Syracuse 30 with 28 seconds left.

Syracuse quarterback Don McPherson, voted the game's most valuable player, rushed for 72 yards and passed for 140 yards and one touchdown.

Syracuse ended the season at 11-0-1, while Auburn finished at 9-1-2.

John Hancock Sun Bowl December 25, 1987 at El Paso, Texas

Thurman Thomas rushed for 157 yards and four touchdowns in leading Oklahoma State to a 35-33 win over West Virginia in the 54th John Hancock Sun Bowl.

While Thomas was carrying a Sun Bowl-record 33 times in blizzard-like conditions, teammate Mike Gundy tossed a six-yard touchdown pass to J.R. Dillard, which put the Cowboys (10-2) ahead to stay, 28-27, in the third period. Thomas' fourth scoring run was the clincher for OSU.

West Virginia (6-6) built a 24-14 lead at halftime, thanks in part to a pair of touchdowns by running back Anthony Brown and an interception return by linebacker Darnell Warren. Brown was the game's leading rusher with 167 yards on 32 carries. Mountaineer quarterback Major Harris totaled 103 yards on the ground and 54 through the air. □

Syracuse Head Coach Dick MacPherson

Brown, the second Notre Dame player to win the trophy (the first was Ken MacAfee in 1977), was chosen because he exemplified the qualities Walter Camp wanted to inspire. Qualities such as self-discipline, unselfish team play and a desire to excel. He finished the 1987 season with 144 yards rushing, 846 yards receiving, 401 yards in punt returns and 456 yards in kick-off returns.

Foundation president Benjamin J. Tortora said Coach MacPherson "demonstrated ability to inspire ultimate performance by the players placed under his charge while, at the same time, instilling in them the paramount importance of sportsmanship and fair play." Qualities Walter Camp himself would have approved of.

For nearly half a century, from 1876 until his death in 1925, Camp was a prominent figure in American football, giving the game direction and character.

Today the traditions and ideals established by Walter Camp are carried on by the Walter Camp Football Foundation. The Foundation sponsors the annual selection of the Walter Camp All-America Team and since 1967 has presented a Player of the Year Award and a Coach of the Year Award.

Recently, the Foundation has gone beyond its established football tradition to become involved in the support of charitable and other worthwhile organizations. □

DIVISIONS II & III BASKETBALL PREVIEW

by John Bartimole

A rundown of the teams to watch in the upcoming 1988-89 NCAA Division II and Division III men's basketball seasons:

Division II

Lowell (Lowell, Mass.): Cinderella made an appearance in the Division II championship game last season, and the glass slipper fit Lowell. The team roared through the tourney and stunned Alaska-Anchorage, 75-72, to claim the Division II crown.

A key player for the Chiefs was their center, Leo Parent, who intercepted an errant pass to help seal the championship. He returns this year and will be counted on to improve his outstanding 11.1-rebounds-per-game statistic of last year. For the team to advance in the tourney again, he'll probably have to push his scoring average up toward 20, and Lowell will have to get some other scoring help at the guard and forward positions. Rebounding, though, thanks to Parent, won't likely be a problem—but repeating as Division II champions may be.

Florida Southern (Lakeland, Fla.): The Moccasins were beaten by Lowell, 88-81, in the tourney's semifinals a year ago, but had the division's best record with a 31-3 mark. This team is perennially among the division's elite—Coach George Scholz's teams have been to the Final Four five times this decade—and 1989 could be the year the team finally wins it all.

Returning is senior All-America candidate Kris Kearney, who hit a gaudy 65.4 percent of his shots last year and had 17 points against Lowell and 24 points in the team's victory over Troy State for third place. Another sharpshooter is Donolly Tyrell, who drained 62.2 percent of his shots a year ago.

Not only did this team have the best record in Division II, it also led all others in field-goal percentage and scoring margin, defeating opponents by an average of 19.1 points per game. If Tyrell and Kearney can keep their eyes sharp—and get off a few more shots—Florida Southern may make its sixth Final Four appearance of the '80s and bring home a Division II crown.

Troy State (Troy, Ala.): Another of the bridesmaids at last year's Final Four was fourth-place finisher Troy State, which dropped a 77-72 contest to Alaska-Anchorage in the semifinals. The team finished 24-10, thanks largely to the accuracy of its outside shooting, as the Trojans converted more than half of their shots.

This year Troy State is at least an even-odds bet to return to the Final Four, thanks to the enormous talent of Darryl Thomas, who'll be a senior. He should improve on his 24.0 ppg average of a year ago, perhaps by launching more from three-point land, where he averaged less than one per game.

Thomas had a substandard game in last year's semifinal loss to Alaska-Anchorage: 15 points on six of 20 from the field, though he did pull down 10 rebounds. If he can string together two stellar performances in next year's Final Four like the one he gave in last season's third-place contest (34 points on 13-26 from the floor and seven of 13 from the free-throw line), Troy State will be wearing the Division II crown.

Virginia State (Petersburg, Va.): This team didn't make much noise in last year's tournament, but look for Virginia State to advance quite far in this season's version—based mostly on the play of Lamont Walker and Leonard Harris.

Harris, who averaged 12.5 rebounds per game last year, is the second-leading returner in that category in Division II. Overall, Virginia State outrebounded opponents by a margin of 9.2 per game a season ago—second best in the division—and with another year under Harris' belt, that figure should only improve. Also the team, which went 21-12 in '87-88, averaged 87.3 points per game a year ago.

Still, much of the team's '88-89 success will depend on the sharpshooting abilities of Walker, who as a sophomore last season

Cheyney (Cheyney, Pa.) etched only a 16-14 mark last year, but averaged 88.5 ppg while doing so. If the team can tighten its defense and get more production from Clarence Green, who averaged 26.7 last year as a junior, Cinderella may have a different name in this year's tourney. Mike Sinclair, who averaged 22.6 from the field, including 4.1 three-pointers per game, makes Bowle State (Bowie, Md.) a threat to give any team in the division a run. Ditto for the talents of Tim Howard of Angelo State (San Angelo, Texas), who pumped in 22.1 ppg last year as a junior.

Division III

Trenton State (Trenton, N.J.): After etching a 26-3 record last season, Trenton State lost to Hartwick (which went on to the Final Four), 84-69, in the tourney's quarterfinals. The team had the sixth-best offense in the division, poured in a rather gaudy 90.1 ppg and routed opponents by an average of 17.2 points, third best in the division. Trenton State hit well over half of its shots (55.5 percent), but still came away empty at tourney time.

What about this year? A year older and a year wiser, the Lions should make it at least to the Final Four this season. One big reason: the return of Greg Grant, who averaged 30.6 points per game as a junior a year ago. Look for Grant to repeat that performance at the very least, and Trenton State to match—or better—their 26-4 overall mark (second best in Division III). This season could be Trenton's turn to claim the division crown.

Cal State San Bernardino (San Bernardino, Calif.): No team in Division III outscored opponents more than did this squad (an average of 20 ppg), only four teams had a better record (21-4) and no team had a better rebounding margin (16.9 ppg). So why didn't Cal State San Bernardino win it all, or at least get to the tourney's quarterfinals?

Good question, one that may be answered this year with last season's experience under the Coyotes' belts. Certainly Mark Warren should perform at least as well as he did last year, which was nothing short of spectacular (25.7 ppg, 12.8 rpg). The senior hopes to make his final year one in which his team at least makes it to the Final Four—and hopefully wins it. With the talent this Cal State San Bernardino squad has, the answers may be apparent this season.

North Adams State (North Adams, Mass.): This team can shoot, with a capital S. Consider these returning veterans: Phil Bledsoe, a junior, who averaged 22.5 ppg last year; T. Paranto, also a junior, who sank 52.2 percent of his three-point attempts; and Bernard Alexander, yet another averaged 3.2 three-pointers per game. If he can improve that pace to about four per game, he will open up the middle for Harris to do some inside scoring, and that combination just might propel Virginia State to the Final Four.

Virginia Union (Richmond, Va.): Last year the team went 25-6, and Terry Davis was only a junior. Just the fact that he'll be a senior is reason enough to expect Virginia Union to improve on last season's record.

Davis merely averaged 22.7 points and 10.9 rebounds per game, making him one of the top returning double-threat players in the country. Certainly he'll need some outside scoring help to carry the team deep into the tournament, but with a player the caliber of Davis, the amount of help needed certainly isn't that great.

Best of the rest: Alabama A&M (Normal, Ala.) had the second-best mark in Division II last season (29-3) and averaged 93.9 ppg, but fell prey to the onrush of Lowell in the tourney's quarterfinals. Though hurt by injuries, the team returns enough talent and experience to make another run this year. Tony Judkins is Sacred Heart's (Bridgeport, Conn.) key to reclaiming the title it won three years ago. The senior averaged 22.3 ppg last year and should improve on that mark this season.

junior, who hit five of every eight shots he took from the field. Alexander, who spent three years in the Army prior to enrolling at North Adams State, averaged 13 rpg as a frosh and should climb back toward that figure after an off year in '87-88.

Obviously last year's team was a bit too inexperienced to make much of an impact in the tournament. This year, however, that impressive trio of juniors—perhaps the best 1-2-3 offensive punch in Division III—should propel North Adams State well into the tournament, and likely into the Final Four.

Potsdam State (Potsdam, N.Y.): How many teams consider 24-5 a disappointing record? Well after you've gone undefeated in '85-86 and lost only one game in '86-87 (and that was the title game), 24-5 may tend to look pretty shabby. Worse, Coach Jerry Walsh's Bears didn't even make it to the quarterfinals of the tournament, which is roughly equivalent to Coach John Wooden's Bruins of yesteryear not getting to the round of 16. So will things be back to normal for Potsdam State in '88-89?

Well, they should be. Walsh has his leading scorer back in Steve Babiarz, who averaged 22.2 ppg last year. Give Walsh some instant offense—which Babiarz will provide—and the coach will find four other ingredients to cook up another delicious season.

Watch for the Bears to wake up from hibernation and return to the Final Four—and once there, they may, out of habit, just win the whole thing once again.

Rust (Holy Springs, Miss.): Sure you can spin off a million jokes from this team's name, and certainly the team has heard them over and over. That's okay, because Rust usually gets the last laugh. Last year, en route to a 23-5 mark, Rust out-pointed its opponents by 15.5 ppg and scored a rare double statistical achievement by having the best defensive field-goal percentage (40.2 percent) and offensive percentage (58.8 percent) in the division. Rust also had the second highest rebound margin with 12.1.

Look for more of the same offensive/defensive tenacity again this season, even though Tony Robinson, who hit a startling two of every three shots, is gone. Ready to take his place to lead the offensive fireworks is Eddie Boyd, a junior who should increase his 3.7 three-pointers per game this season.

Best of the rest: It's foolish to count out any of last year's Final Four, though all have been hurt by graduation. Ohio Wesleyan (Delaware, Ohio) hopes to repeat its first-ever team title in any sport by working its way back to the championship game, even though it's minus Scott Teder and Lew Rowlinson. Meanwhile Scranton (Scranton, Pa.) almost appears automatically in the championship game, having been there 13 times, the most of any Division III team.

Another consistent performer in the Final Four—and one who will likely threaten to join that select group again this year—is Nebraska Wesleyan (Lincoln, Neb.), which has finished third three times in the last four years. Hartwick (Oneonta, N.Y.) lost Tim McGraw, who made the all-tourney team, but returns enough talent to challenge for the championship again. Other teams (and players) to watch: Matt Hancock of Colby (Waterville, Me.), who averaged 31.6 ppg as a sophomore. Keith Orchard of Whitman (Walla Walla, Wash.), who hit an amazing 57.5 percent of his three-pointers as a frosh. Sophomore Mike Nelson of Hamilton (Clinton, N.Y.), who led the division in rebounding last year with 13.4 sweeps per game, and Jeff Jones of Lycoming (Williamsport, Pa.), who made more than four three-pointers per game as a junior. □

TO A RADAR GUN THEY LOOK EXACTLY ALIKE.

Forget the fact that the car on the left is a legendary performance car. And that the one on the right is a wagon.

A radar gun doesn't notice minor details like that. It focuses on only one thing: speed.

And from that point of view, the Porsche 944 and the Volvo 740 Turbo Wagon look remarkably similar.

In fact, in repeated quarter-mile tests, they came up with virtually identical numbers—both in elapsed time and miles-per-hour. In 0-60 tests, the Volvo wagon actually came out ahead of the Porsche.* Which is no small feat for any car, much less a wagon.

It's no wonder Road & Track magazine called the 740 Turbo Wagon the closest thing to a five-door sports car.

Which all goes to prove that the Volvo 740 Turbo Wagon is something very rare indeed:

A wagon that's actually worth owning for what it packs up front.

A SALUTE TO HUSKER ACADEMIC-ATHLETIC LEADERS

Mark Blazek

Jeff Jamrog

Virginia Stahr

Stephanie Bolli

Tom Schlesinger

Lori Sippel

Academics are an important part of the student-athlete's career at Nebraska. The Huskers have led the Big Eight in academic honors for athletes for many years and this year is no exception. Over 100 Husker athletes were named to the Big Eight Honor Roll in 1987-88. To qualify, each letterperson must have posted a 3.0 grade point average during the 1987-88 year. Of 521 athletes, Nebraska led the Big Eight with 120 named to the honor roll, followed by Iowa State (83), Missouri (67), Colorado (60), Kansas (56), Oklahoma State (54), Oklahoma (43) and Kansas State (38). Of Nebraska's honorees, 21 were football players.

To qualify for first-team Academic All-Big Eight honors, a player must be a starter or an important reserve and post a 2.8 GPA. Eight football players earned first-team honors, and 34 other Huskers from 17 sports also proved that academics and athletics can go hand in hand.

The next step up is to be named to the GTE Academic All-America team, where student-athletes across the nation compete for honors. To qualify, athletes must be a leading contributor to the team and post a 3.20 cumulative GPA. Nebraska saw six athletes earn such honors: Mark Blazek and Jeff Jamrog from football; volleyball player Virginia Stahr; Stephanie Bolli from the Husker women's basketball team; gymnast Tom Schlesinger; and softball All-American Lori Sippel. In addition Schlesinger and Sippel were named Nebraska's Conference Medal Award winners for the 1987-88 academic year as seniors who have had an outstanding record in athletics and academics.

The University of Nebraska salutes these athletes who have found success both in the classroom and in athletics.

Drugs and the Athlete... a losing combination.

Athletes command a unique position in American society and in societies throughout the world. Many view the athlete as a hero who strives for perfection. The public expects excellence, and to achieve these high standards and thereby maintain public favor, the athlete must maintain peak alertness, responsiveness, efficiency and coordination.

A small segment of the athlete population has resorted to the use of drugs (e.g., anabolic steroids, amphetamines and various "street drugs") purported to improve physical performance. The decision to use drugs to improve physical performance, for the most part, has not been based on sound information and could have dire physical consequences for involved individuals. Further, such usage violates NCAA ethical principles.

The ethics of sport need to be emphasized, particularly in that taking drugs to improve performance constitutes cheating. There is need to reemphasize the fact that the important thing in sport is to compete honorably; to win at all costs is a contradiction to the meaning of sport.

The athlete should not carry all the blame for the situation. Coaches, trainers and the medical profession need to share some of this burden, as does the public, for expecting and frequently demanding a winning effort every time.

Society has placed a number of demands upon the athlete. If one believes that athletes and the general public will make sound judgments most of the time when provided with the necessary information, educating athletes and others about drug effects, appropriate drug use and the skills needed to cope with such problems could have substantial benefits to the individual and to society.

The NCAA has produced a pamphlet entitled "Drugs and the Athlete...a losing combination," which includes the latest and best information available on the problem of solving drugs in sports. To order, send $3 for 12 copies to: NCAA Publishing, P.O. Box 1906, Mission, Kansas 66201.

MEN'S SWIMMING

Head Coach: Cal Bentz

Career Record: 86-50, 11 years

Diving Coach: Jeff Huber

Assistant Coaches: Rick Paine, Keith Moore

1987-88 Record: 8-1

Conference Finish: 1st

Quickfact: The Huskers have won nine-straight conference titles and their 10th-place finish at the 1988 NCAA Championships was the best in school history.

The 1987-88 season was unquestionably the most successful in school history. A near-perfect dual season, a ninth-straight Big Eight title and their first Top 10 finish saw the Nebraska men's swim team get a foot in the door with the national elite.

It would be hard to blame head coach Cal Bentz and his Huskers for being greedy. While some teams may be content with taking success one step at a time, Bentz has his team looking to seize the opportunity in order to swim with the best.

"We were very pleased with last season," he said. "To finish in the Top 10 was a great accomplishment for this team but we feel with the talent and experience we have returning, now is the time for us to move even higher."

To do that, Bentz has assembled some of the nation's best swimmers in the Cornhusker camp as they look to challenge the traditional powers again this season.

Leading the way for the Nebraska swimmers are sophomore Peter Williams, the world record holder in the 50-meter freestyle, and senior Mike Irvin, a three-time All-American in the individual medley. All-American divers Lewis Meyers and Lawrence Roddick, a U.S. National Team member, provide coach Jeff Huber and the Huskers with one of the most talented duos in the country. In all, the Huskers return 12 athletes with NCAA meet experience and honors to the 1988-89 edition.

The Huskers will have a chance to showcase their talent at home when they host one of the most unique meets ever held in the United States, Dec. 1. Prior to the Husker Invitational, five of the nation's Top 10 teams from a year ago will battle in a meet featuring sprint races only. Included in the field are Nebraska, UCLA, Michigan, Southern Methodist and defending national champion Texas.

WOMEN'S SWIMMING

Head Coach: Ray Huppert

Career Record: 84-40, 13 years

Assistant Coach: Kelly Nordell

1987-88 Record: 7-2

Conference Finish: 2nd

Quickfact: The Huskers have won eight-straight dual meets at the Bob Devaney Sports Center.

After losing their hold on the Big Eight championship last season, it may seem as though the Nebraska women's swim team has backed itself into a corner. In recent years, the Huskers have enjoyed conference supremacy and national respect with three Big Eight titles and Top 20 rankings.

Last year, however, not only did Kansas take home the conference title, the Huskers finished a dismal 39th at the NCAA Championships.

For head coach Ray Huppert and his team, it's time to come out a-fightin'. And that, he says, is what they intend to do.

"This is an important year for us," Huppert said. "We have to go out and prove to everybody and to ourselves that we are a much better team than we showed at the end of last season."

In all fairness, the Huskers have sported one of the youngest teams in the nation the past two seasons and last year saw injuries slow the lineup second semester. Now as he looks at the 1988-89 season, Huppert is as optimistic as ever about avoiding a repeat and bringing Nebraska back into national prominence.

"I really think that this year's team has as much talent as any team that we've ever had at Nebraska," he said. "We have people who have been in the program and have gotten a tremendous amount of experience. Now they are showing the desire and determination to become even better both individually and as a team."

Among the athletes returning this season include Big Eight champions Carole Johnson, Terri Long, Mindy Matheny and diver Julie May.

Husker Hoops

Young Cage Squad Eager for Opener

By Nick Joos

There is a look of excitement and anticipation on Coach Danny Nee's face these days, as the Husker cage squad is two weeks away from its season-opener against intra-state rival Creighton. The two teams square off November 26th in the Bob Devaney Sports Center.

The Huskers are coming off a 13-18 season, which saw NU finish 4-10 in the Big Eight Conference, good for a sixth-place tie with Oklahoma State. Three of the top four scorers from that team are gone, including the team's top scorer from the past two seasons, forward Derrick Vick (11.2 ppg). Guard Henry T. Buchanan (9.7 ppg) and forward Jeff Rekoweg (9.0 ppg) have also departed.

However, the cupboard is far from bare, as nine letterwinners, including two starters, return. Throw in a recruiting class that drew national attention from three recruiting services, and a successful trip to Australia and New Zealand last spring, and one can see why Nee is chomping at the bit to get his third season underway.

Nee is banking on a pair of seniors, 6-2 guard Eric Johnson and 6-8 center-forward Pete Manning, to provide the leadership and stability necessary for a young team this season.

Johnson will serve as the Huskers' point guard and team captain after leading Nebraska in three statistical categories in 1987-88; assists (112), steals (60) and minutes played (889). E.J. started 29 games and averaged 8.8 points and 3.5 rebounds per game.

Manning averaged 9.5 points and 5.0 rebounds per game as a junior last season, and led the Big Eight Conference in field-goal percentage. He connected on 111 of his 188 shots for 59.0 percent, to edge collegiate player-of-the-year Danny Manning for the honor.

"I'm counting on big seasons out of Eric and Pete," Nee said. "I feel comfortable with Eric as our point guard, and I expect Pete to be a major factor for us."

The lone junior returnee is 6-9 center Richard van Poelgeest, the only player on the Nebraska roster with more than a year of experience in the Big Eight Conference. Van Poelgeest averaged 4.2 points and 2.9 rebounds per game as a sophomore.

However, the heart of the Nebraska basketball program this season and for the next few years figures to come from four sophomores and five talented newcomers. As freshmen, the 1988-89 sophomores played a total of 1,803 minutes, or 29.8 percent of the team total. That is easily the largest percentage among Big Eight teams, and it was far and away the most for a Husker team since freshmen became eligible for varsity play in 1972-73.

"Our sophomore class is the one we're counting on to give us the stability over the next couple of years, and to get us where we want to go," Nee said.

The tallest player in the class and on the team, is 7-2 center Rich King. King was a member of the Big Eight's all-freshman team last season and averaged 4.7 points and 2.9 rebounds per game. Like King, 6-2 guard Clifford Scales was named to the Big Eight's all-freshman squad after averaging 5.5 points per game.

Beau Reid, a 6-7 forward, averaged 8.3 points per game enroute to 232 points—the third-highest total ever for a Nebraska freshman. He was NU's leading scorer on the Australia/New Zealand tour, averaging 20.4 points per game. Jed Borgen, a 6-5 swingman, who appeared in 11 games as a reserve last year, returns and could see more playing time this season.

The recruiting class that Nee and his staff inked is solid, and includes three true freshmen, a redshirt freshman and a junior college transfer.

Heading the list of newcomers is 6-8 forward Dapreis Owens, who averaged 27 points and 14 rebounds in his final season at Ohio's Mansfield

High School. Owens was picked as one of the nation's 15 "Freshmen-of-Influence" in Street and Smith's Pre-Season Annual, and was rated as a "Star-on-the-Rise" by the Sporting News. Another front-line prospect, 6-8 forward Carl Hayes, averaged 18 points and 11 rebounds in his senior season at St. Joseph High School in Westchester, Ill. The other front-line newcomer, 7-foot redshirt freshman Kelly Lively, should bolster the Huskers' inside game.

A pair of newcomers should help in the backcourt, 6-7 swingman Ray Richardson and 6-3 guard Eric Dolezal. Richardson averaged 19 points and seven rebounds per game in his final season at Hiwassee (Tenn.) Junior College, while Dolezal averaged 24.2 points as a senior at La Porte (Ind.) High School.

"We want to absorb the new players into the program, and as they come along and feel comfortable, they will ease into it and earn their playing time accordingly," Nee said.

With a solid group of returnees and newcomers in the fold, 17 regular-season home games, and a favorable Big Eight Conference schedule, which features four of the first six games at home, the Huskers' appear to be a good bet to return to post-season tournament play for the sixth time in seven years. If that happens, those pre-season looks of excitement and anticipation on Nee's face will tell the tale of a basketball program that's on its way to new heights.

Senior guard Eric Johnson will serve as Nebraska's team captain this season.

Maybe it's time you had one for your telecommunications system.

Imagine what it would look like if a football team decided to "wing it" out there on the field without a game plan. It would look pretty silly, wouldn't it?

Well, that's exactly what many companies do when it comes to planning and designing telecommunications systems. The results are costly.

That's where we come in to play. You see, we can show you the most cost effective way to handle your information. No matter how unusual your needs are. In fact, we're the telecommunications consultant to the Super Bowl and a number of NFL teams. We provide dozens of communication systems that enable the press to get their stories out, spotters to talk with their coaches, and stadium security to talk to each other.

If we can do all that, just think of what we can do for you.

Isn't it time you had a game plan for your telecommunications system? Get in touch with us. Your GTE Account Manager will be glad to help you draw one up.

Burlington Northern Foundation supports water quality research

by Pat Larsen
UNL Water Center

A $200,000 grant from the Burlington Northern Foundation, the largest single grant made by the Foundation, is enabling several University of Nebraska-Lincoln (UNL) scientists to carry out a six-pronged assault on water contamination.

The grant was made in October, 1984, shortly after a report of the Nebraska Agriculture 2001 Committee noted that "Irrigation is now, and will be over the next 20 years, the largest user of the state's water. Thus, we must improve management of our irrigation systems to protect both the quantity and quality of this resource."

The gift from the Burlington Northern Foundation was the first major gift received by the University to implement recommendations of the Agriculture 2001 Committee appointed by the Board of Regents.

"This research funding helps to evaluate water quality problems in Nebraska and allows us to examine issues that affect all Nebraskans," said Roger Gold, interim director of the Water Center at UNL.

Gold noted several questions about water quality of concern to Nebraskans that the grant will help resolve: What happens to the groundwater if a chemigation malfunctions or an accidental chemical spill contaminates the water source or well? Is it more cost efficient to apply agricultural chemical by chemigation than by other methods?

Results from the five-year research program will be available in 1990, according to Gold, research project director.

Gold said that the threat to water quality and the documented evidence of high nitrate levels in many locations has made the protection of groundwater quality a priority research objective for the next 20 years. And Governor Orr and the Nebraska Legislature included water quality as one of the research initiative areas to receive special funding during the 1988 legislative session. The U.S. Department of Agriculture's National Extension Service and the UNL Extension Service also designated water quality as a high ranking priority initiative.

The Burlington Northern Foundation grant provides funds for research in five areas: nitrogen mineralization and leaching, herbicide-irrigation-tillage (HIT), insectigation, chemigation safety equipment, excursion and cleanup from chemigation backflow. Funds from the grant also support a pesticide analytical laboratory in its efforts to help find a solution to groundwater contamination.

"We're beginning to get some answers to questions we've been concerned about for some time," Gold said. "Experts estimate that about 40 percent of Nebraska's more than 27,000 center pivot irrigation systems are used to apply agrichemicals by chemigation which allows for the potential of widespread contamination."

Irrigation systems such as the one above are the largest users of Nebraska's water. Below, Edwin Thieszen of Henderson inspects the check valve on his chemigation system. The 1986 Chemigation Law called for check valves on all Nebraska center pivot systems to prevent backflow of chemicals into wells.

Pete Comeback Spurs Husker Defensive Line

By Nick Joos

Professional baseball annually selects a comeback player-of-the-year award winner. If such an award existed for the Nebraska football team, senior middle guard Lawrence Pete would be a strong candidate for the honor. Pete has made three "comebacks" during his five years as a Cornhusker.

Following a freshman season which saw Pete and tackle Neil Smith lead the freshman team in tackles with 36 each, Pete had his right knee scoped in the spring of 1985 and sat out that season as a redshirt. In the spring of 1986, Pete's right knee was scoped again, but he was ready for practice when fall camp opened. Pete played behind All-America middle guard Danny Noonan as a sophomore, then took over the starting assignment as a junior in 1987. Pete gained valuable experience playing behind Noonan, who went on to become a first-round draft pick of the Dallas Cowboys.

"Danny (Noonan) was aggressive from the start of the game until the end," Pete said. "That's the biggest thing I learned from Danny, was just to be aggressive, to play hard and intimidate the guy across from you. I think that was Danny's game."

Pete recorded 25 tackles playing behind Noonan in 1986, then tallied 45 tackles, including two for losses totalling four yards in 1987. However, two weeks into spring practice before his senior season, Pete told Coach Tom Osborne he was giving up football for personal reasons.

Two months later, Pete was back in Osborne's office, asking for a chance to return—a wish that was granted by the NU coaching staff and the team.

"After sitting and thinking about it for two months, and with the season approaching, I started to read the press clippings and get excited," Pete said. "I knew I wanted to be a part of it. It would have been really hard for me to sit back and watch this season, knowing I had a year of athletic eligibility left. That contributed a lot to my coming back."

His third and final comeback brought smiles to the Husker defensive coaching staff, who had counted on having Pete serve as one of the anchors on the Husker defensive line, in 1988. Although Pete has been slowed by mononucleosis and tonsillitis during the fall, he has played some of the best football of his career of late. He had a career-high 10 tackles in Nebraska's 26-18 victory over Missouri, including three sacks for losses of 17 yards. For the year, Pete has recorded 36 tackles, including 23 solo stops, and has six quarterback hurries, which have resulted in two interceptions for the Husker secondary.

"I came back this year with the incentive that I wanted to be in on every defensive play. I wanted to play football," Pete said.

Pete's statistics and play this season seem to back that statement up, and following the Missouri win, Osborne said, "Lawrence has come back and played as well or better than he did as a sophomore. He played well behind Noonan. He's 50 percent better than he was last year."

An avid weightlifter, Pete is the only Nebraska football player to ever bench press 500 pounds, a major accomplishment for any athlete. However, it's an accomplishment that Pete doesn't dwell on much when he is chasing down opposing running-backs in the backfield. While he credits some of his success to the weights, Pete said technique is a key, too.

"You can be the strongest guy out there, but if you don't have the right technique, you can be in the wrong spot and watch the other team run down the field. It's good to be strong and it sounds good, but if you don't play good technique football, you'll find yourself headed to the bench," Pete said.

While Pete's dedication to football and the hours that it takes to become a good player are obvious, Pete's top priority in life is his wife Wendy, and his one-year-old son Brandon. It's tough for any football player to balance time between school and football, and even harder to juggle a family, school and football. But Pete has managed to do it with a little help from his position coach, Charlie McBride and an understanding wife.

It was McBride who took Pete aside last summer and told him that he had to concentrate on his family first, school second, and football third. Pete has taken that priority list to heart and is on target to graduate next May with a degree in consumer science and education, with an emphasis in family planning.

"It's not that much harder than being a regular student, I do basically the same things. But, my social life is cut down quite a bit, as now I do a little baby-sitting, fix some bottles, and change some diapers, rather than go out with the guys," Pete said.

The spring of 1989 could be a big one for the Pete household, with Lawrence scheduled to receive his degree, and the recent talk that he could be drafted by an NFL team in April.

"I'd just like to be a draft choice," Pete said. "I want to take football as far as I can. Football will be over one day, and then I'll have my degree to fall back on. But for now, I want to go as far as I can with football."

Middle guard Lawrence Pete sacks Kansas quarterback Kelly Donohoe, in the Huskers' 63-10 victory, last month in Lawrence.

Coached by Francis Allen, 1988 Midwest region Coach-of-the-Year, the Nebraska men's gymnastic team captured their sixth NCAA title last April at the Bob Devaney Sports Center. Big Eight Conference champs as well, the Huskers will defend both titles this season.

As Nebraska plays host to the NCAA Championships in April, four returning All-America performers, Mike Epperson, Patrick Kirksey, Bob Stelter and Mark Warburton, plus freshman Lance Ringnald, a member of the 1988 olympic team, will lead the Huskers.

The 1988 Big Eight champion Cornhuskers look to defend their conference title this season, as well as plan for their third-consecutive NCAA Championship bid. Coached by Rick Walton, the 1988 women's gymnastics Big Eight Coach-of-the-Year, the team will be led by seniors Crystal Savage and Jeaneane Smith.

O.K. Here's the situation: Early in the fourth quarter, with Nebraska up by three touchdowns and looking like a Red Steamroller, a fan stands up from his assigned seat. He decides to get a jump on the crowd and leaves the game to go to Tony & Luigi's. Did he make the right decision?

Now you make the call!

Some fans go to great lengths to see the Huskers.

Some Nebraska football fans drive the length of the state to watch the Huskers play. When they come, they're probably listening to KRVN Radio.

They listen to KRVN for up-to-the-minute news and farm reports, weather and road conditions and easy listening country music. On those game days when they can't make the game, they listen to it on KRVN.

Automobile dealers in Nebraska are contributing a large measure of help to the University of Nebraska athletic program through the loan of courtesy cars. Like other programs which are a part of the Cornhusker booster group activities, this project enables the Nebraska Athletic Department to make greater use of its funds.

These sports-minded dealers around the state have earned a debt of gratitude from the University of Nebraska Athletic Department. They are an important part of the "team" that includes players, coaches, administration, faculty, staff, students, alumni, Husker Educational Award group, Touchdown Club, Extra Point Club, Beef Club and the courtesy car program.

Today's Cheerleader

MORE THAN JUST A PRETTY FACE

by Phil Richards,
Indianapolis Star

There was a time when the selection of college cheerleading and pep squads was based on a show of teeth and the support of friends. Cheerleading tryouts were little more than popularity contests. The criteria were appearance and appeal. Most candidates didn't know a handspring from a hamburger.

Not so anymore. The trend today is for cheerleaders to be nearly as athletic as the teams they support.

"All my guys are ex-jocks," said Rod Flynn, a former Utah cheerleader who coaches the all-male, eight-man University of Southern California yell team. "Every one of them played football [in high school]. We've got track and field, basketball [athletes]—one guy was a surfer."

Two members of the reigning national champion University of Kentucky cheerleading team played freshman football, one at Kentucky, the other at Nebraska.

Nor are the males the only athletes. Most of the women are former high school cheerleaders and athletes.

"We attract some people right off the varsity teams here at Penn State," said Nittany Lions cheerleading advisor Lee Gianone. "We get athletes who are tired of competing or who just can't quite make it at this level—gymnasts, swimmers and divers, all kinds of athletes."

Like most facets of campus life, cheerleading is continually evolving. During the late 1960s and early '70s, interest waned. So did participation by highly qualified candidates. The decline paralleled attendance drops and diminished interest in a wide variety of traditional activities. But as surely as the fans have returned, so have the cheerleaders.

Auburn tryouts attracted almost 250 hopefuls this year. Penn State annually draws 150 to 200 aspirants. So do major universities across the country. Kentucky has won the Universal Cheerleading Association (UCA) national championship three of the last four years. UK's standards for academics, athleticism and interpersonal skills are stringent. It replaces only three or four members of its 12-person team in any given year. Yet 200 people begin the selection process knowing they face 50-to-1 odds.

Someone has noticed all the fuss. UCA's national championship finals have been nationally televised for the past seven years. ABC broadcast the event in 1985. The current titlists are Division I-A Kentucky, Division I-AA Morehead State and Slippery Rock in Division II. Memphis State's famed Song Girls are the top dance team.

UCA summer camps are annually attended by 4,500 high school cheerleaders. Its five-week-long college camps each bring 1,200 to 1,500 cheerleaders to Memphis.

The National Cheerleading Association (NCA) in Dallas also offers college camps and sanctions a national championship tournament.

University cheerleading budgets range from $5,000 to $90,000. The typical Division I school annually devotes $50,000 to $70,000 to uniform, transportation, lodging, meal and practice expenses. The investment is hardly one-sided. The cheerleaders give an awful lot, too.

"It's literally a year-round sport," said Kentucky cheerleading advisor Lynn Williamson. "We have tryouts in April and then practice twice a week until the last of May, when school is out. Almost all of our cheerleaders are hired by UCA, NCA and the other national groups to teach at their cheerleading camps. That lasts through August.

"They come back to school two weeks before classes begin and practice for three or four days, then go to a college cheerleading camp for a week of intensive instruction. We come back and practice for two-and-a-half to three hours, three days a week. Generally our guys will lift [weights] the three days a week we don't have practice. During Christmas break and the month before nationals we practice twice a day, seven days a week. In the evenings we have another intensive conditioning workout session."

From the beginning of football season in September to the conclusion of basketball season in March, most teams don't have a single weekend without a game. About half those contests are on the road and may involve an investment of two-and-a-half days. And the games are only the beginning.

"We do just about anything we're asked to do, from the American Dairy Association cow-milking competition on," said Penn State's Gianone. "Two-thirds of our activities are public relations. A lot of our work is with Penn State alumni clubs, a lot of philanthropic activities, nursing homes, hospitals.

"We've been averaging between 100 and 125 events a year, and when you figure there are probably 12 football games and 15 basketball games, that shows you how many other things we do."

Crowd involvement—leading the cheers—is a cheerleading squad's raison d'être, but because most cheerleaders are involved in such a range of university public relations, they are chosen to that end. Minimum grade point averages are standard. So are interviews during which a candidate's interpersonal skills are carefully evaluated. Many schools require cheerleaders to be able to wade into a crowd of alumni or supporters and articulate the university's philosophy in a clear, engaging manner.

"I can't give the demographics for college cheerleaders, but we do have them from our high school surveys," said UCA vice president Greg Webb. "Eighty-five percent of them are B-plus students. Sixty percent are involved in other extracurricular activities and 25 percent are student council members.

"I think the college level would be at least the same," Webb said.

While it may be natural to assume that sex appeal has a place in all this, denials are readily forthcoming.

"I frown on the word 'sexy' because it's just not part of our program," said Penn State's Gianone. "It's not even a consideration."

"Appearance is certainly important, but I know here and at most schools what you're looking for is all-American kids. If that's sexy to you, then I guess they have sex appeal," said Joe Paul, Southern Mississippi dean of student development and advisor or supervisor of the SMU cheerleaders for the past 11 years.

"Because this is such an athletically challenging activity, it calls for technical competence and athletic ability to be weighed most heavily. After that you look to appearance, personality and the ability to articulate and to represent your school in the manner you want.

"You can just say, 'I'm going to go out and get the 10 prettiest girls on campus.' But you probably wouldn't have much of a cheerleading squad."

Cheerleading may never have received the exposure it did during the 1986-87 school year. Unfortunately, much of it was negative. Kentucky's Dale Baldwin suffered a neck injury in a minitrampoline accident and now is a quadriplegic. North Dakota State cheerleader Janis Thompson was killed when she fell 10 feet while practicing a pyramid stunt.

"There was a kind of knee-jerk reaction across the country. You know, 'My God, cheerleading injuries are incredible. Let's have them do nothing or let's take a serious look at this,'" said UCA's Webb. "It was a serious thing just because cheerleaders weren't even in the liability policy of universities because there are so few injuries."

Most cheerleading injuries are confined to back strains, tendonitis, and knee and ankle sprains.

In a 1981 study the federal Consumer Product Safety Commission rated 200 recreational activities according to degree of risk. Football, basketball and baseball were in the top five. Cheerleading was No. 182.

In his book "A Survey of Sports-Related Spinal Cord Injuries for Schools and Colleges," Kenneth Clarke showed that cheerleading averaged less than one permanently disabling spinal cord injury annually over a 10-year period. He compared that to injuries of the same nature suffered in other athletic activities during the period of 1973-75: football (46), gymnastics (22), wrestling (eight) and baseball (three).

Still, some benefits have resulted from Baldwin's and Thompson's tragic accidents. The American Association of Cheerleading Coaches and Advisors, a national association, adopted UCA's safety guidelines. Minitrampolines have been virtually outlawed. Other potentially dangerous activities were identified and eliminated. Schools now make certain that suitable practice facilities and equipment are furnished. Activities have been brought under the supervision of qualified coaches and advisors.

"Ten years ago probably five percent of universities had full-time advisors and coaches," Webb said. "Now, it's probably 90 percent."

Cheerleading is not a sport. There are no winners or losers. But cheerleaders are entertainers, part of the show. They are an integral support group, a traditional, colorful thread in the fabric that is collegiate sports. And at their best, cheerleaders don't just lead a crowd, they help manage it.

"Say you've got a couple fraternity groups sitting together and the game is getting a little boring and they're starting to shout at each other or chant or do something people find distasteful," said Southern Mississippi's Paul. "Cheerleaders, if they know what they're doing, can get to that area and lead a cheer or start something that dissipates that kind of thing. We consider our cheerleaders an important part of the event."

Cheerleaders are as easy to take for granted as peanuts, popcorn and ticket scalpers, but they bring a whole lot more to the game than most of its sundry trappings. Try to imagine college sports without them. □

Despite the highflying gymnastic routines, cheerleading remains relatively safe, thanks to better coaching and safety guidelines.

YEARS FROM NOW YOU MAY HAVE TO REPLACE THE LACES.

Timberlands just seem to get better with age. You see, what makes them wear well is what makes them look good.

We handsew them because no machine can do the job. We make the sides and bottom from one piece of hide to cradle your foot and add a glove soft leather lining to gently coddle it as well.

As time goes by you'll notice that the solid brass eyelets are still in place, and still shining. The leather uppers will certainly have earned some memorable nicks and scars, but the nylon hand stitching will still hold. As will the rawhide laces.

And if some day years from now you have to replace a lace, we hope you won't feel that the new one harms your Timberlands' appearance.

TIPS ON SHOOTING SPORTS

Shooting the Action

Action is what sport is all about. Our memories of the great moments in sports are freeze-frames of action: a tight end leaping for a pass that just touches his fingertips, a quarterback being sacked, a punt being blocked.

As photographers, we want to make those memories permanent by capturing the event on film. It's not always easy, but there are some tips that will help you make memorable action photographs.

The first rule of sports photography, of course, is to know the sport. . . really know it. Before you pick up your camera, you should know what's happening—and what's going to happen—out there on the field. You can't photograph action unless you can anticipate it. As one expert pointed out, if you see it in your viewfinder, it's too late. . . you've lost the shot.

But you could teach Tom Landry a thing or two about football, you say. Fine. . . that's a start. Now you've got to think about the game in photographic terms. Where is the action most likely to take place? Where should you position yourself to have the perfect shot when things start happening? Where is the sun going to be when you start shooting? What's going to be in the background?

Once you've resolved these questions, you're almost ready to start shooting. First, though, you need to control all the variables you can before the action starts. It may be too late to focus when the touchdown pass is in the air, so think about how you want to handle the situation before it happens. If it's bright and you're using a fast film, you can choose a small aperture (like $f/16$ or $f/22$) that will give you great depth of field while still having enough shutter speed to freeze action. Focus in the middle of the area where you think things are going to happen, and then check the depth of field by pressing the preview button. Now you'll be ready when the ball's in the air! (Of course, if you've got an autofocus camera, this kind of anticipation isn't necessary.)

Even owners of autoexposure or program cameras need to think ahead about the proper lens settings. If you've got an aperture-preferred automatic system, in which you select the aperture and the camera picks the proper shutter speed, you may find that the camera's picks are too slow to freeze action. Take a reading on the area before you start shooting, and base your aperture selection on the shutter speed the camera selects. If you've got a shutter-preferred system, chances are you'll freeze the action with your setting, but focus could become a problem because of shallow depth of field. Again, anticipate: take a reading and either select a speed that will give enough depth of field, or be prepared to do some last-second focusing. If you're using a nonautomatic camera, set both shutter speed and aperture early so you won't have to worry about them in the heat of the action.

Play the angles if you want to freeze action. If your subject is coming right at you, speeds as low as $1/125$ can stop the movement, but if your subject is at a 45-degree angle, you may need to go to $1/500$. And if the subject is at right angles to you, $1/1000$ will probably be necessary. There are some tricks you can use if light and film speed don't cooperate. Panning—moving the camera to track a moving subject—lets you get away with a lower shutter speed: $1/60$ is about right. If you're planning to pan, a tripod or a single-legged unipod is almost a necessity. And remember that a panned shot will give you a clear subject but a blurred background. . . not a bad idea, since it just about shouts "speed"!

recreates a royal tradition of hospitality

*W*aikoloa, on the Big Island of Hawaii, is where the kings and queens of old Hawaii used to vacation. They knew...the water, the weather, the beach, the hospitality. In old Hawaii, Waikoloa was the best.

Today, that royal tradition has been recreated at the Royal Waikoloan. Here you will discover the true Hawaii, and this is just a sampling of what you might experience.

THE ROYAL LUAU hula is performed by authentic Big Island halau. The music, dance, food and costumes create a picture from the past.

PANIOLO ROUNDUP takes place on what was once part of the largest individually-owned ranch in the U.S., and the steaks are barbecued as the Hawaiian cowboys did and still do it.

THE HUKILAU is a beachfront cook-out, and guests share in the fun of netting the fish. Picture yourself in an outrigger canoe, chasing the catch into the net.

A BACKYARD PARTY gives you the local-style good times of Hawaii today with music, food, arts, and crafts. Some of the best craftspeople on the island stop by.

You will feel the Aloha spirit here, and you will leave fulfilled, knowing you have experienced the true Hawaii.

For a vacation fit for a King, see your travel agent or call us, toll-free.

THE EVOLUTION OF COLLEGE FOOTBALL

Modern college football, like almost everything else, traces its origins to the ancient Romans, who played a primitive version of the game using a pig bladder. Unfortunately, it did not occur to them to remove the bladder from the pig first, which, as you can imagine, greatly encumbered the running backs and seriously hampered development of the passing game. Nevertheless, this early version had certain elements that are central to modern football, such as players on the sidelines saying "Hi, Mater!" and holding up their index fingers to express the concept: "We're Roman Numeral One!"

Football next appeared in Europe in a mutant form we call "soccer," which is a game in which hundreds of short men with giant thighs race around virtually at random until a riot breaks out in the stands. England developed an even more bizarre form of the game, called "rugby," which does not use a ball at all; the players merely lunge together in a large, writhing, grunting mound of human flesh and are awarded points on the basis of total team blood loss.

Meanwhile, true football came to the United States, possibly carried here by birds. The first formal intercollegiate game was played in New Brunswick, N.J., in 1869, when Rutgers defeated Princeton six goals to two. By modern standards, this first contest was very crude. For one thing, there were no videotape cameras, so the instant replays had to be performed manually, with the players actually re-enacting crucial plays in slow motion. For another, the fans had virtually no concept of basic rooting techniques. A good example was the way they did "The Wave": the entire crowd would get up and physically run around the entire stadium. And the cheerleaders were not much better as they attempted to fire up the crowd with such unsophisticated cheers as:

Two! Four! Six! Eight!
Ten! Twelve! Fourteen! Sixteen!
Eighteen! Twenty! Twenty-two!
Twenty-four! Twenty-six!
Twenty-eight! Thirty! (etc.)

Nevertheless, it was football, and it quickly grew in popularity, as legions of Americans recognized that here, at last, was a sport that combined the element of huge men running into each other real fast with the element of huge men falling down. And as the game spread, it began to improve, thanks to a number of milestone innovations, such as:

•September 3, 1882—Helmets are introduced into the game, a safety breakthrough that becomes even more significant when, on . . .

•October 14, 1885—Players in the Yale-Army game discover that they can wear the helmets on their heads.

•December 8, 1886—Howard Cosell is born.

•November 27, 1887—Legendary wily coach Walter Camp orders his quarterback to say "Hut!" instead of "Gimme the ball now!" It takes opposing coaches nearly six years to crack this code.

•January 2, 1888—Howard Cosell says his first word ("indubitably"); his parents place him in an orphanage.

•November 6, 1901—Amos Alonzo Stagg, another pioneer coach who was also legendary, and of course, wily, revolutionizes football with the invention of the "forward pass," although the true potential of this new offensive weapon is not realized until several years later, with the invention of the "catch."

•October 16, 1923—Legendarily wily coach Knute ("Knute") Rockne, played by Pat O'Brien, invents the halftime talk, urging his Notre Dame team, played by actors who look to be an average of 37 years old, to "win one for the Gipper," who, tragically, could not be with the team personally because he was vacationing at his ranch in Santa Barbara.

But of all the advances in strategy the most important one was the creation by the National Collegiate Athletic Association of "Division I-AA," which is a group of smaller colleges with names like South-Central Indiana Aeronautical, Technical, Pharmaceutical, Agricultural & Dental, whose sole purpose for existing is to give major Division I football powers like Oklahoma somebody they can beat by scores ranging upwards of 178-0.

As more big schools recognized the strategic value of games such as these, more and more schools had undefeated or nearly undefeated seasons, and each of these teams could make a semi-legitimate claim to be the national champion. This resulted in a lot of friendly, good-natured arguments among fans, which sometimes ended in gunfire. So it was generally felt that what college football needed was some way to take the very confusing question of who was national champion, and see if there were maybe some way to make it even more confusing. And thus the bowl-game system was born.

The way the bowl system works is, each year, for about five weeks leading up to New Year's Day, you read a whole bunch of newspaper articles like this:

WHO'S NUMBER ONE?

The question of who will emerge as the national champion college football team will depend on several factors as we head into the bowl games. Most experts agree that if Oklahoma defeats Miami in the Orange Bowl AND Michigan defeats Washington in the Rose Bowl but Nebraska does NOT defeat Arkansas in the Sugar Bowl NOR DOES Texas defeat either Alabama or Georgia in the Cotton Bowl PROVID-ED THAT Wisconsin fails to get the team bus started and thus completely misses the Garlic Bowl, then the national champion will clearly be Notre Dame. Or possibly Penn State. IF, however, Oklahoma TIES Miami. . .

And so on. It gets even more confusing after they play the actual games. This is why a lot of people have argued for years that we should abandon the bowl system and use a pro-football-style playoff system, so the question of who's No. 1 can be resolved without question in one massive version of the professional Super Bowl, which, as you know, never fails to provide the kind of dramatic, exciting football that has millions of fans all over America glued to their reclining lounge chairs, sound asleep. □

Vegetables such as cabbage, broccoli, brussels sprouts, kohlrabi and cauliflower may help reduce the risk of gastrointestinal and respiratory tract cancer.

Fruits and vegetables (and whole grain cereals such as oatmeal, bran and wheat) may help lower the risk of colorectal cancer.

Sure, you could invest your hard-earned money in commodities.

There are lots of investments out there. But few offer the stability and competitive return of U.S. Savings Bonds.

John J. Creedon, President of Met Life and Chairman of the U.S. Savings Bonds Volunteer Committee.

The money you earn on bonds is hard to beat. If held for only five years, they earn variable market-based interest rates. And it's guaranteed.

Plus, bonds are fully backed by the U.S. Government. So they are one of today's safest investments.

There's more. Savings Bonds are free of state and local income taxes on the interest you earn. You can buy them where you bank or through the payroll savings plan at work. For more information, just call: 1-800-US BONDS.

Most people think heart disease happens only in the elderly.

It happens in children as well. Things like rheumatic heart disease and congenital heart defects. Each year, nearly one million Americans of all ages die of heart disease and stroke. And 20,000 of them die from childhood heart diseases.

The American Heart Association is fighting to reduce early death and disability from heart disease and stroke with research, professional and public education, and community service programs.

But more needs to be done.

You can help us save young lives by sending your dollars today to your local Heart Association, listed in your telephone directory.

Put your money where your Heart is.

If you want America to keep its competitive edge, do something about it.

Support America's colleges. Because college is more than a place where young people are preparing for their future. It's where America is preparing for its future.

If our country's going to get smarter, stronger — and more competitive — our colleges and universities simply must become a national priority.

Government. Business. And you. We're all in this together. Because it's our future.

So help America keep its competitive edge with a gift to the college of your choice — and you'll know you've done your part.

Give to the college of your choice.

Nebraska Trophy Winners

JOHNNY RODGERS

1972 Heisman Trophy

One of the most exciting players in the history of college football, Rodgers won the 38th annual Heisman Trophy as the nation's outstanding collegiate player in 1972. A two-time consensus All-America wingback, Rodgers became the Huskers' first Heisman winner as he outdistanced Oklahoma's Greg Pruitt and Husker teammate Rich Glover. The most dangerous player ever to wear the Cornhusker Scarlet and Cream, "Johnny the Jet" threatened to go all the way every time he touched the ball, as he averaged 15 yards per touch during his junior year, which still stands as an NCAA record. He also shares the NCAA record for the most punt returns for touchdowns in a career, seven.

MIKE ROZIER

1983 Heisman Trophy

Rozier capped an outstanding three-year career by becoming the Huskers' second Heisman Trophy winner after a phenomenal senior season that saw him rewrite the Husker rushing and scoring record book. He outdistanced Brigham Young quarterback Steve Young to win the award after piling up a NCAA-record 929 yards on the ground in the Huskers' final four regular-season games. Rozier finished the 1983 season with 2,148 yards, the second highest in NCAA history behind USC's Marcus Allen (2,342 on 403 carries in 1981). However, considering Rozier's NCAA season record of 7.8 yards per carry, he would have amassed 3,148 yards in '83 if he had carried the ball as often as Allen.

Mike Rozier became Nebraska's first NCAA rushing champion.

Johnny Rodgers broke OU's back in the "Game of the Century."

Larry Jacobson
1971 Outland Award

Rich Glover
1972 Outland Award
1972 Lombardi Trophy

LARRY JACOBSON

Nebraska's first Outland winner, Jacobson won the trophy as the defensive left tackle on the Huskers' 1971 national championship team. A Lombardi finalist, the 6-6, 247-pound native of Sioux Falls, S.D., gathered All-America and All-Big Eight honors during his senior campaign. Jacobson also excelled in the classroom and was the top vote-getter on the 1971 Academic All-America team.

RICH GLOVER

A two-time All-American, Glover capped an outstanding senior year by sweeping national honors in 1972, winning both the Outland Award and the Lombardi Trophy. Glover's Outland Award gave Nebraska the distinction of being the first school to win back-to-back Outlands, a feat that would be accomplished again a decade later by Huskers Dave Rimington and Dean Steinkuhler. The 6-1, 234-pound middle guard from Jersey City, N.J., also finished third in the 1972 Heisman balloting behind Husker teammate Johnny Rodgers and Oklahoma's Greg Pruitt.

DAVE RIMINGTON

Possibly the most decorated offensive lineman ever to play college football, Rimington became the first and only player to win back-to-back Outland Awards. As a junior in 1981 Rimington was named Big Eight Player of the Year by both wire services and won his first Outland, setting the stage for his senior year, which he capped by sweeping the 1982 Outland and Lombardi Trophies. A two-time consensus All-America center from Omaha, Neb., Rimington became the second Husker to sweep the lineman awards and his consecutive Outland honors brought Nebraska the distinction of being the only school to win back-to-back Outland Awards twice, as he duplicated Larry Jacobson (1971) and Rich Glover's (1972) feat by himself.

DEAN STEINKUHLER

Nebraska again boasted the nation's top lineman in 1983 as Dean Steinkuhler, a 6-3, 270-pound offensive guard from Burr, Neb., swept national honors by lugging home the Outland and Lombardi Trophies, giving Nebraska an unprecedented three straight Outlands and two straight Lombardis. With Steinkuhler's teammate Mike Rozier winning the Heisman, Nebraska is the only school to win the top three honors in a season, and the Huskers have done it twice, first turning the trick in 1972 when Johnny Rodgers won the Heisman and Rich Glover took home the Outland and Lombardi.

THE TOUCHDOWN CLUB OF NEBRASKA

One of the groups most instrumental in helping the University of Nebraska Athletic Department grow in the field of intercollegiate sports is the Nebraska Touchdown Club.

Contributions from TD Club members have enabled the Cornhuskers to build a fine grant-in-aid program and continued support from the Touchdown Club, and groups like the Husker Achievement Awards, the Extra Point Club, and the Cornhusker Beef Club, will insure that the Nebraska Cornhuskers will always hold a prominent place in the college sports world.

The University of Nebraska Athletic Department salutes the many members of the Touchdown Club and takes this opportunity to say a sincere "Thank You."

Touchdown Club members (as of Aug. 23, 1988) contributing $200 or more are:

Glamour's on the Line for Nelson

by Jennifer Snyder

Don't let John Nelson's size fool you, he's just a softy at heart.

A Stephen King novel with all the spookiness and horror is enough to scare the big offensive guard.

"I like to read horror novels in my spare time, especially Stephen King. His book 'It' is my favorite. I like fiction stories and imaginary things. I like scary things and 'It' was the first book to really scare me."

But Nelson also likes reality and the fact that he is a starter for the Huskers became a reality for him this fall. "Being a starter for Nebraska is one of the high points of my college career. It has been one of my goals since I got here to start at least one game."

Nelson will also be the first person to admit that his chances of even playing football, let alone starting for Nebraska—were slim. Suffering from minor injuries throughout his college career, the shocker came in the spring of 1986 when Nelson injured his knee and had to undergo reconstructive knee surgery.

"It was a big blow to me when I injured my knee because I was having a good spring," said Nelson. "I was offered a scholarship after the knee injury and that helped my desire to want to come back."

For the senior from Minden, Neb., playing football was not his only incentive for a full recovery. Nelson had some personal reasons for fighting back from the injury.

"I was getting married that summer of my knee surgery. After the operation I could only walk with crutches and I wasn't about to walk down the aisle on crutches," he explains. "I only had eight weeks to be able to walk again, so I had to hurry."

Offense line coach Milt Tenopir is glad to have Nelson as the starting right guard, especially after the injuries he has had. "He has recovered from his knee surgery real well. John had some ankle problems which he never really gets over but he still competes well."

"John has been playing very steady and has gotten the job done most of the time," said Tenopir. "Basically he has been a consistent and a very intelligent football player. I wish we could have him for another year or two."

A quiet person by nature, Nelson feels more at home on the offensive line than he would in a more glamorous position, like quarterback. A vital part of the offense, the line is often overlooked, but that is just fine with him.

"At Nebraska we are the start of the play. We trick the defense and block accordingly so the backs can run. If we're not doing our job it makes it tough for the backs to do their job well. It's critical that we do our job right."

Not being in the spotlight all the time also suits Nelson. In fact, he kind of likes it that way. "I guess you could say that I like to have an important part in the outcome of the game but I also like to be a little less seen. It fits my personality better to be more behind the scenes and not in the limelight."

Nelson is one of the few players who is married on the team. It is hard for him to find the time to spend with his wife Megan but they are both doing the best they can.

"We try to do as much as we can together during the season because it is kind of hard to have a lot of time to spend with each other," Nelson said. "Marriage wasn't that big of an adjustment for us because we have been dating since high school. It helps that we are both busy in school."

"But it's tough to find time to spend with each other when your days are used up with school and at night with studying. We just try to do something fun."

This Saturday marks the last time Nelson will play in Memorial Stadium as a Husker. He is looking forward to graduating in December with a degree in management and to the post-season bowl game but that will be the end to his football career . . . a career he hoped for as a child in Minden.

"When I was really young, Greg Jorgensen played football here. When he was a senior, he was a team captain and I thought that was really neat. When I was in high school, Kris Van Norman was a monster back here and I decided that I would come to Nebraska and play football."

Nelson is glad that he choose Nebraska. The coaches and the other players appreciate everyone on the team . . . even the offensive linemen.

"Being an offensive lineman here is a lot more special than it would be somewhere else," he said. "I believe this is one of the best places to play on the offensive line because we are a good running team. We play a critical part in the success of our team."

THE DIRECTOR'S CLUB

The Director's Club of the University of Nebraska was formed by the University of Nebraska Foundation to afford proper recognition of those alumni and friends who support the athletic programs of the University at a level above that of other boosters and to encourage others with the capabilities and interest to increase their support. The university athletic department sincerely thanks these contributors.
